Towards a Community of Antiracist Praxis in Higher Education Jie Y. Park, Laurie Ross, 2025-08-22 Weaving together theory research and practice this edited volume provides rich accounts of teaching from faculty at a predominantly white institution who participated in a community of antiracist praxis a cycle of action and reflection on pedagogy The chapters highlight the ways in which faculty can transform classrooms and colorblind discourses in higher education They center the voices of faculty who are on the ground and grappling with their own positionality and academic training to present an antiracist pedagogy that emphasizes student agency and authority exposes whiteness in course content and inquiry processes and introduces students to new ways of knowing that are racially just Each contributing author offers principles teaching activities and resources that readers can apply in their own disciplinary or interdisciplinary contexts Written for faculty graduate students administrators and pedagogy specialists in higher education this book urges readers who work in higher education to action and paves a path forward through the creation of communities of antiracist praxis

The Figure of the Witness in International Criminal Tribunals Benjamin Thorne, 2022-10-05 This book analyses how international criminal institutions and their actors legal counsels judges investigators registrars construct witness identity and memory Filling an important gap within transitional justice scholarship this conceptually led and empirically grounded interdisciplinary study takes the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda ICTR as a case study It asks How do legal witnesses of human rights violations contribute to memory production in transitional post conflict societies Witnessing at tribunals entails individuals externalising memories of violations This is commonly construed within the transitional justice legal scholarship as an opportunity for individuals to ensure their memories are entered into an historical record Yet this predominant understanding of witness testimony fails to comprehend the nature of memory Memory construction entails fragments of individual and collective memories within a contestable and contingent framing of the past Accordingly the book challenges the claim that international criminal courts and tribunals are able to produce a collective memory of atrocities as it maintains that witnessing must be understood as a contingent and multi layered discursive process Contributing to the specific analysis of witnessing and memory but also to the broader field of transitional justice this book will appeal to scholars and practitioners in these areas as well as others in legal theory global criminology memory studies international relations and international human rights

Do Not Disturb Michela Wrong, 2021-03-30 A powerful investigation into a grisly political murder and the authoritarian regime behind it Do Not Disturb upends the narrative that Rwanda sold the world after one of the deadliest genocides of the twentieth century We think we know the story of Africa s Great Lakes region Following the Rwandan genocide an idealistic group of young rebels overthrew the brutal regime in Kigali ushering in an era of peace and stability that made Rwanda the donor darling of the West winning comparisons with Switzerland and Singapore But the truth was considerably more sinister Vividly sourcing her story with direct testimony from key participants Wrong uses the story of the murder of Patrick Karegeya once Rwanda s head of external intelligence and a quicksilver operator of supple charm to paint the portrait of a modern African dictatorship created in the chilling likeness of Paul Kagame the president who sanctioned his former friend's assassination

Voice of Missions, 2004 Broadcasting Stations of the World, 1979 Sustainable Tourism Dialogues in Africa Judy Kephher Gona, Lucy Atieno, 2022-03-21 Focusing on the future of tourism Sustainable Tourism Dialogues in Africa is inclusive of experienced and emerging researchers as well as incorporating local stakeholders in the tourism industry architects tourism operators sustainable tourism lobbyists policy makers archaeologists and geographers The editors are frontline sustainable tourism advocates in Africa and the book's thematic content is derived from 30 inter-university seminars on sustainable tourism hosted by Sustainable Travel Tourism Agenda Kenya from 2017 to November 2019 These seminars involved the participation of 17 universities in Kenya tourism operators conservationists developmentalists investors policy makers and students Every chapter is a voice projecting aspirations for the responsible management of tourism in Africa and promoting the ideals of sustainable tourism that young people in Africa advocate for the industry's future In so doing the authors pinpoint the necessary actions for bringing about transformations in sustainable development of tourism The book thus seeks to encourage debate while facilitating the development of both theoretical and practical foundations for managing tourism sustainably in Africa

Gender, Vulnerability Theory and Public Procurement S.N. Nyeck, 2023-07-28 Taking up the concept of vulnerability this book examines the gendered impact of market-based procurement practices In recent years ideological shifts and real managerial constraints have forced states everywhere to rely on private resources to solve public problems Focusing on instances where the state retains ownership of assets and rights even if it temporarily devolves its authority to a private entity profit or non-profit this book uncovers the ways in which these private actors are not just suppliers of materials goods but increasingly policy influencers More specifically the book focuses on the gendered dynamics within the law policy and practice of public procurement and investigates how vulnerability is conceptualized and coded in the process of public acquisition of works goods and services from private suppliers In this book a series of rich case studies from Africa the Middle East and Europe show how vulnerability theory can inform the design of public institutions that are more responsible and responsive to gender-informed demands for social justice This is the first book to integrate vulnerability theory into public procurement studies in global and comparative perspectives and it will appeal to scholars and others with interests in gendered dynamics in law and society international development public policy and international political economy

Daily Report, 1996 Congressional Record, Broadcasting Stations of the World United States. Foreign Broadcast Information Service, 1974-06 This Voice in My Heart Gilbert Tuhabonye, Gary Brozek, 2009-11-10 Gilbert Tuhabonye was a teenager at school in Burundi Africa when the centuries-old conflict between the Hutu and Tutsi tribes came into his life Tuhabonye was herded into a small room with his fellow Tutsi students and teachers where Hutus beat most of them to death doused them with gasoline and set them on fire Tuhabonye hid under burning bodies for more than eight hours before making his escape the only survivor of the massacre Badly burned himself he credits his survival to his faith in God This Voice in My Heart is the tale of Tuhabonye's remarkable journey. While his survival under such horrific conditions is astonishing, perhaps even more remarkable is his ability to forgive his attackers and move on with his life. This Voice in My Heart teaches the real meaning of courage, faith, and forgiveness. Gilbert Tuhabonye was born on November 22, 1974, in the southern county of Songa in Burundi, East Central Africa. His parents were part of the Tutsi tribe and were farmers by profession. In October 1993, Tuhabonye was the only survivor of a massacre of Tutsi students and teachers at his school. After recovering from his injuries, he came to the United States to study, graduating from Abilene Christian University. He was a national champion runner and is now a track coach in Austin, Texas, where he lives with his wife and two daughters. Gary Brozek is a former Senior Editor at Plume Penguin and lives in New York. Gilbert Tuhabonye's story is much more than a common account of the American immigrant; it is an improbable, soul-searching journey of faith that inspires others to seek the One who lives within the heart. Rick Perry, Governor of Texas.

Women Political Leaders in Africa Rosemarie Skaine, 2008. Focuses on women in elected or appointed national government positions. An extensive analysis of the progress made by women leaders in each individual country and overall analysis of the historical role of women in African governments. In-depth profiles of women in high office positions, including Liberian President Ellen Johnson Sirleaf and Mozambique Prime Minister Luisa Diogo. Provided by publisher.

Voice of Friendship, 1986. From Surviving to Living Catherine Gilbert, 2018. During the 1994 Genocide against the Tutsi in Rwanda, acts of extreme violence were committed against women. This book presents a critical study of Rwandan women's published testimonies, seeking to understand how Rwandan women, genocide survivors, respond to and communicate such experiences. Drawing on trauma theory, Holocaust studies, and critical approaches to testimony, From Surviving to Living examines the ways in which the genocide is remembered in both individual and collective memory and the challenges Rwandan women face in the ongoing process of surviving trauma. Through close analysis of women's testimonies, written predominantly in French and a smaller number in English, this book underlines the necessity of developing new ways of listening to the diversity of Rwandan women's voices in order not only to gain greater insight into how traumatised individuals remember but also to hear the challenge they pose to conventional Western modes of responding to trauma.
