White Australia Policy:

Creating White Australia Jane Carey, Claire McLisky, 2009 The adoption of White Australia as government policy in 1901 demonstrates that whiteness was crucial to the ways in which the new nation of Australia was constituted And yet historians have largely overlooked whiteness in their studies of Australia s racial past Creating White Australia takes a fresh approach to the question of race in Australian history It demonstrates that Australia s racial foundations can only be understood by recognising whiteness too as race Including contributions from some of the leading as well as emerging scholars in Australian history it breaks new ground by arguing that whiteness was central to the racial ideologies that created the Australian nation This book pursues the foundations of white Australia across diverse locales It also situates the development of Australian whiteness within broader imperial and global influences As the recent apology to the Stolen Generations the Northern Territory Intervention and controversies over asylum seekers reveal the legacies of these histories are still very much with us today

Australia and the Birth of the International Bill of Human Rights, 1946-1966 Annemarie Devereux, 2005 Australia and the Birth of the International Bill of Human Rights provides the first in depth examination of Australia s first reactions to international human rights during the negotiations for the International Bill of Rights the Universal Declaration of Human Rights the ICCPR and ICESCR It follows Australian policy from 1946 the first year in which the United Nations began discussing a Bill of Rights until 1966 when the twin Covenants were finalized The book looks at what successive Australian Governments understood by human rights and how they responded to discussion of sensitive domestic topics such as immigration policies self determination for inhabitants of trust territories equal pay for men and women and balancing human rights and national security As well as considering Australian policies towards substantive rights the book looks at Australian policies towards international schemes for protecting rights including early proposals for an International Court of Human Rights and its later support for more modest technical expertise based assistance for States debates often taking place against the background of highly politicised issues such as the Cold War and the fight against apartheid In looking at this 20 year period the book demonstrates the way in which Australian policy changed substantially over time as between Labor and Liberal administrations between Ministers and bureaucrats and as between decision makers with markedly distinct visions of the ideal relationship between citizens and a State and the individual State and the international community In highlighting the diversity of views about human rights this book thus challenges the notion that Australia has historically supported a universally understood set of human rights norms and underlines the number of variables which may be affecting ongoing implementation of human rights standards

The Australian People James Jupp, 2001-10 Australia is one of the most ethnically diverse societies in the world today From its ancient indigenous origins to British colonisation followed by waves of European then international migration in the twentieth century the island continent is home to people from all over the globe Each new wave of settlers has had a profound impact on Australian society and culture The Australian People documents the dramatic history of Australian settlement and describes the rich ethnic and cultural inheritance of the nation through the contributions of its people It is one of the largest reference works of its kind with approximately 250 expert contributors and almost one million words Illustrated in colour and black and white the book is both a comprehensive encyclopedia and a survey of the controversial debates about citizenship and multiculturalism now that Australia has attained the centenary of its federation

Imagined Australia Renata Summo-O'Connell, 2009 From Terra Nullius to Land of Opportunities and Last Frontier the European dream has constructed and deconstructed Australia to feed its imagination of new societies At the same time Australia has over the last two centuries forged and re-invented its own liaisons with Europe arguably to carve out its identity From the arts to social sciences to society itself a complex dynamic has grown between the two continents in ways that invite study and discussion A transnational research group has begun its collective investigation project of which this first volume is the outcome The book is a substantial multidisciplinary collection of current research and offers critical perspectives on culture literature and history around themes at the heart of the Imagined Australia project The essays instigate reflection discovery and discussion of how reciprocal imagining between Australia and Europe has articulated itself and ways and dimensions in which a relationship between communities imagined and not has unfolded
