Dissociation and Wholeness in Patrick White's Fiction Laurence Steven, 1989-08-23 Most studies of Patrick White s fiction are devoted to elucidating archetypal patterns symbolic configurations and thematic preoccupations and generally to praising the way White s fictional elements combine to form a religio mystical worldview Few have questioned this critical approach to White fewer still have questioned White s vision itself Yet according to the author questioning is in order for Patrick White is a man divided One part of him strives for permanence for the ideal in a world he knows is contingent and temporal a world that will undermine his striving This leads him as a novelist to devalue human life and to impose arbitrary symbolic resolutions on his novels This has been the focus of most critics But there is another side a part of White that strains away from the dualism of idealism versus despair and towards a vital wholeness that can be found not in a world beyond the one we live in but in human relationships It is this side of Patrick White argues Laurence Steven that is the source of his genuine power as a novelist An important challenge for the critic is to develop an ability to see within the restrictive compass White s symbolic designs impose on the novels the new shoots as D H Lawrence would have it which indicate new life new creativity and which point towards a wholeness which human beings can embrace as their own Introduction
