Schools are required to provide a range of support when a child's behavior gets in the way of learning. School-wide approaches to behavior apply to all students, and 504 Plans or Individualized Education Programs (IEPs) can provide personalized support and services to students with disabilities. Asking good questions is a strong advocacy skill!

Here are some questions parents can ask in conversations or meetings.

When you see an asterisk (*), please see more information on the next page.

QUESTIONS THAT APPLY TO ALL STUDENTS

How does our school use MTSS* to help all students learn the expectations for behavior?

How do teachers and other staff members deal with bullying*, hurtful, or aggressive behavior?

Who makes decisions about discipline and suspension, and where can I see the policy*?

How and when does our school involve police or School Resource Officers?

QUESTIONS THAT APPLY TO 504 PLANS AND IEPs

How do I set up a meeting to talk about my child's behavior?

Can you give me some specific examples of the behavior you are concerned about, including what was going on before the behavior started and how staff responded?

Has a Functional Behavior Assessment* been completed to learn about the "function" of my child's behavior?

What data can I see about my child's response to the Behavior Intervention Plan* that's in place now?

Who, in the district or the community, can provide training for my child's teachers?

What is the difference between a 504 Plan and an IEP?

What accommodations might help prevent my child's challenging behavior?

What are my child's rights if they are suspended more than 10 school days*?

What are my rights if the school calls me to pick up my child early?

Who Is In Charge Questions Parents Ask About Children:

All About Children - Questions Parents Ask Tony Humphreys,2004-10-19 Being a parent is more challenging today than it s ever been In All About Children this thoroughly reliable and effective handbook clinical psychologist Dr Tony Humphreys outlines effective ways of parenting and positive responses to difficult behaviour by children Sometimes the task of parenting seems overwhelming At others it provides great fulfilment and joy It is always unpredictable the challenges are forever changing and much of what we might have learned from our own parents seems quite irrelevant now Parenting is not learned by instinct it requires many complex skills Parents have responsibility for the physical emotional social sexual behavioural educational creative and spiritual development of their children and at the same time they must love them unconditionally Tony Humphreys recognises the many and varied challenges faced by parents today In All About Children he provides an invaluable resource for parents by taking the questions they most frequently ask and providing thoughtful and comprehensive answers He begins by pointing out that in order to develop parenting skills each parent must first understand themselves and be prepared to continually update their knowledge as the needs of their children alter as they grow older He goes on to deal with the practical aspects of everyday parenting skills and then looks at different aspects of challenging behaviour both by children and parents The book concludes with a chapter on learning and education two core concerns of every parent In a helpful question and answer format All About Children provides today s parents with not only the vital information they require but also points out the skills they need to carry out their demanding task effectively All About Children Table of Contents Introduction Where does parenting begin What roles do parents need to play What are the skills needed for everyday parenting How can parents best respond to children s challenging behaviours How can parents resolve their own challenging behaviours How can parents prepare children for living their lives fully

Handbook of Parenting: Being and becoming a parent Marc H. Bornstein,2002 Despite the fact that most people become parents and everyone who has ever lived has had parents parenting remains a mystifying subject about which almost everyone has opinions but about which few people agree Striking permutations on the theme of parenting are emerging single parenthood blended families lesbian and gay parents and teen versus fifties first time moms and dads Divided into four volumes the Handbook of Parenting is concerned with different types of parents basic characteristics of parenting forces that shape parenting problems faced by parents and the practical sides of parenting Contributors have worked in different ways toward understanding all of these diverse aspects of parenting and look to the most recent research and thinking in the field to shed light on many topics every parent has wondered about Because development is too subtle dynamic and intricate to admit that parental caregiving alone determines the course and outcome of ontogeny

Social Control and Self-Control Theories of Crime and Deviance L. Edward Wells,2017-07-05 Control theories have dominated criminological theory and research since the 1969 publication of Hirschi s seminal work on the social bond Social control and self control theorists are unique in suggesting that patterns in criminal behaviors are better explained by variations in social constraints rather than by individual motivational impulses thus indicating that their main concerns are the explication and clarification of the techniques processes and institutions of informal social control The four major sections of this volume focus on the similarities and differences among the major contributors to the early developmental stage of social control theory the central importance of parents peers and schools in the creation of informal control mechanisms and their link to crime and delinquency the theoretical underpinnings of self control theory including empirical tests and criticisms and theoretical integrations of social control and self control theories with various motivational theories of crime and delinquency
