Status Of Soviet Civil Science:

The Status of Soviet Civil Science Craig Sinclair, 2012-12-06 This volume represents one outcome of the initiatives taken from time to time by the NATO Science Committee to add to the work of supporting civil science within the Alliance by mounting open meetings or other projects dealing with some topical aspect of science and technology policy Past examples have included the 20th anniversary meeting of the establishment of the Science Committee in 1978 which made a review of the achievements of the various programmes It proved to be a valuable opportunity to take stock of the impact of science and technology on Western societies and was a particularly useful occasion for a critical analysis of the changing nature and social role of science and technology In contrast the Science Committee Conferences in 1973 and 1976 on the Technology of Efficient Energy Utilization and on Thermal Energy Storage were responses of the Committee to specific technological problems engendered by the then acute energy supply position A similar technologically oriented study was made in 1975 of the Rational Use of Potentially Scarce Metals These initiatives were the counterpoint to the bulk of the continuing work of the Committee in funding scientific mobility in the Alliance as support to civil science This latter is done competitively in response to unsolicited applications The Committee hopes to demonstrate by its special activities its flexibility and responsiveness to the evolving activities technologists and policy makers The Status of Soviet Civil Science Craig Sinclair, 1987 Soviet Science on the Edge of Reform Harley D. Balzer, 2019-06-04 It is my sincere hope that the reforms currently being introduced in the USSR will render much of this book obsolete Yet even if perestroika brings significant change to the Soviet Union historians will want a record of what existed before After four years it has become apparent that perestroika is a painful long term process In such a large and diverse country even the reforms that are successful cannot take place everywhere at once One major goal in publishing this book is to make data from a major interview project on Soviet science and technology available to a broader audience Despite the changes taking place many of the features illuminated by these unique data persist Soviet And Post-Soviet Telecommunications Robert W Campbell, 2019-06-04 THE TELECOMMUNICATIONS SECTOR constitutes a vital infrastructure for a modern society It is part of the working mechanism of a decentralized flexible and dynamic market economy It also serves as the foundation for a pluralistic political system with a government accountable to the public The crucial role of communications is increased by synergistic interaction between globalization of economic processes and the continuing technical revolution in information processing and communication One of the most revealing indicators of the inability of the old Soviet system to attain its goal of matching the performance of the advanced market economies was its neglect of telecommunications The sector was always treated as an orphan devalued because in line with a peculiar Marxian notion it was not considered part of material production 1 and was starved of attention and resources Status of soviet civil science; Proceedings of the symposium on soviet scientific research... 1986, 1987 NATO Review, 1987 Proceedings of the Eleventh International Conference
