Student and Teacher Writing Motivational Beliefs Steve Graham,Gary A. Troia,Gustaf Bernhard Uno

Skar,2024-06-21 The study of students motivational beliefs about writing and how such beliefs influence writing has increased since the publication of John Hays 1996 model of writing This model emphasized that writers motivational beliefs influence how and what they write Likewise increased attention has been devoted in recent years to how teachers motivational beliefs about writing especially their efficacy to teach writing impact how writing is taught and how students progress as writers As a result there is a need to bring together in a Research Topic studies that examine the role and influence of writing beliefs Historically the psychological study of writing has focused on what students write or the processes they apply when writing Equally important but investigated less often are studies examining how writing is taught and how teachers efforts contribute to students writing What has been less prominent in the psychological study of writing are the underlying motivational beliefs that drive or inhibit students writing or serve as catalysts for teachers actions in the classroom when teaching writing This Research Topic will bring together studies that examine both students and teachers motivational beliefs about teaching writing This will include studies examining the operation of such beliefs how they develop cognitive and affective correlates how writing motivational beliefs can be fostered and how they are related to students writing achievement By focusing on both students and teachers beliefs the Research Topic will provide a more nuanced and broader picture of the role of motivation beliefs in writing and writing instruction This Research Topic includes papers that address students motivational beliefs about writing teachers motivational beliefs about writing or teaching writing Students motivational beliefs about writing include beliefs about the value and utility of writing writing competence attitudes toward writing goal orientation motives for writing identity epistemological underpinnings writing and attributions for success failure as examples Teacher motivational include these same judgements as well as beliefs about their preparation and their students competence and progress as writers to provide additional examples This Research Topic is interested in papers that examine how such beliefs operate develop are related to other cognitive and affective variables how they are impacted by instruction and how they are related to students writing performance Submitted studies can include original research both quantitative qualitative or mixed methods meta analysis and reviews of the literature The Teacher's Encyclopaedia of the Theory, Method, Practice, History and Development of Education at Home and Abroad Arthur Pillans Laurie,1912

Preparing to Teach Writing James Dale Williams,2003 Preparing to Teach Writing Research Theory and Practice Third Edition is a comprehensive survey of theories research and methods associated with teaching composition successfully The primary goal is to provide practicing and prospective teachers with the knowledge they need to be effective teachers of writing and to prepare them for the many challenges they will face in the classroom Overall the third edition of Preparing to Teach Writing is clearer and more comprehensive than the previous editions It combines the best of the old with new information and features The discussions and references to foundational studies that helped define the field of rhetoric and composition are preserved in this edition Also preserved is most of the pedagogical apparatus that characterized the first two editions research and theory are examined with the aim of informing teaching New in the Third Edition a more thorough discussion of the history of rhetoric from its earliest days in ancient Greece to the first American composition courses offered at Harvard University in 1874 a major revision of the examination of major approaches to teaching writing current traditional rhetoric new rhetoric romantic rhetoric writing across the curriculum social theoretic rhetoric postmodern rhetoric and post postmodern rhetoric considering their strengths and weaknesses an extension of the discussion of strengths and weaknesses of major approaches to its logical conclusion Williams advocates an epistemic approach to writing instruction that demonstrably leads to improved writing instruction when implemented effectively a more detailed account of the phonics whole language debate that continues to puzzle many teachers and parents a new focus on why grammar instruction alone does not lead to better writing the difference between grammar and usage and how to teach grammar and usage effectively an expanded section on Chicano English that now includes a discussion of Spanglish more information on outcome objectives the Council of Writing Program Administrators statement of learning outcomes for first year composition courses has been included to help high school teachers better understand how to prepare high school students for college writing and to help those in graduate programs prepare for teaching assistantships in first year composition courses and a more comprehensive analysis of assessment that considers such important factors as the validity reliability predictability cost fairness and politics of assessment and the effects on teaching of state mandated testing and also provides an expanded section on portfolios

Theory and Practice of Writing William Grabe, Robert B. Kaplan, 2014-09-25 This book undertakes a general framework within which to consider the complex nature of the writing task in English both as a first and as a second language The volume explores varieties of writing different purposes for learning to write extended text and cross cultural variation among second language writers The volume overviews textlinguistic research explores process approaches to writing discusses writing for professional purposes and contrastive rhetoric It proposes a model for text construction as well as a framework for a more general theory of writing Later chapters organised around seventy five themes for writing instruction are devoted to the teaching of writing at the beginning intermediate and advanced levels Writing assessment and other means for responding to writing are also discussed William Grabe and Robert Kaplan summarise various theoretical strands that have been recently explored by applied linguists and other writing researchers and draw these strands together into a coherent overview of the nature of written text Finally they suggest methods for the teaching of writing consistent with the nature processes and social context of writing

Writing for Pleasure Ross Young, Felicity Ferguson, 2020-12-29 This book explores what writing for pleasure means and how it can be realised as a much needed pedagogy whose aim is to develop children young people and their teachers as extraordinary and life long writers The approach described is grounded in what global research has long been telling us are the most effective ways of teaching writing and contains a description of the authors own research project into what exceptional teachers of writing do that makes the difference The authors describe ways of building communities of committed and successful writers who write with purpose power and pleasure and they underline the importance of the affective aspects of writing teaching including promoting in apprentice writers a sense of self efficacy agency self regulation volition motivation and writer identity They define and discuss 14 research informed principles which constitute a Writing for Pleasure pedagogy and show how they are applied by teachers in classroom practice Case studies of outstanding teachers across the globe further illustrate what world class writing teaching is This groundbreaking text is essential reading for anyone who is concerned about the current status and nature of writing teaching in schools The rich Writing for Pleasure pedagogy presented here is a radical new conception of what it means to teach young writers effectively today
