death Appreciate Your Life conveys Maezumi Roshi's unique spirit and teaching style as well as his timeless insights into the practice of Zen. Never satisfied with merely conveying ideas, his teisho (the Zen talks he gave weekly and during retreats) evoked personal questions from his students. Maezumi Roshi insisted that his students address these questions in their own lives. As he often said, "Be intimate with your life." The readings are not teachings or instructions in the traditional sense. They are transcriptions of the master's teisho, living presentations of his direct experience of Zen realization. These teisho are crystalline offerings of Zen insight intended to reach beyond the student's intellect to her or his deepest essence.

Invoking Reality John Daido Looi, 2007-06-19 There is a common misconception that to practice Zen is to practice meditation and nothing else. In truth, traditionally, the practice of meditation goes hand in hand with moral conduct. In Invoking Reality, John Daido Looi, one of the leading Zen teachers in America today, presents and explains the ethical precepts of Zen as essential aspects of Zen training and development. The Buddhist teachings on morality, the precepts predate Zen, going all the way back to the Buddha himself. They describe in essence how a Buddha or awakened person lives his or her life in the world. Looi provides a modern interpretation of the precepts and discusses the ethical significance of these vows as guidelines for living. Zen is a practice that takes place within the world, he says, based on moral and ethical teachings that have been handed down from generation to generation. In his view, the Buddhist precepts form one of the most vital areas of spiritual practice.
