Child adolescent development and behavior have been a traditional concern of primary health care providers However it was not until the mid 1960s that attempts were made to consolidate developmental behavioral issues into an identifiably distinct fund of medical knowledge During the ensuing two decades developmental behavioral pediatrics was recognized as a clinical and research subspecialty within the framework of comprehensive health care for children The influence of public advocacy groups topic dedicated journals national professional specialty societies subject related continuing education programs and federal legislation PL94 142 has served to crystallize developmental behavioral pediatrics as a specialized field of study As a consequence during the past ten years significant modifications have restructured medical student and pediatric resident education providing an emphasis on developmental behavioral issues The focus on neurodevelopmental educational and psychosocial issues reflects changing priorities in traditional health care for children The postgraduate training of pediatric fellows in two and three year training programs was initiated to accommodate professional manpower needs in both academic and practice settings Many of the problems in childhood development and behavior frequently span the traditional areas of child neurology child psychiatry and general pediatrics As a result there has been some confusion in demarcating professional responsibilities in diagnosis and management as well as poorly defined terminology and classification schemas With the birth of developmental pediatrics as a pediatric specialty a more cohesive fund of knowledge has been accumulated and more meaningful strategies have been designed for prevention diagnosis and management

Neurodevelopmental Disabilities Dilip R. Patel,Donald E.

Greydanus,Hatim A. Omar,Joav Merrick,2011-04-07 Increasingly more and more children with developmental disabilities survive into adulthood Pediatricians and other clinicians are called upon to care for an increasing number of children with developmental disabilities in their practice and thus there is a need for a practical guide specifically written for paediatricians and primary care clinicians that addresses major concepts of neurodevelopmental pediatrics In the United States the specialty training leading to a conjoint board certification by the American Board of Pediatrics and American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology requires a total of 6 years of training 2 years of pediatrics 1 year of neurology 18 months of child neurology 18 months of neurodevelopmental disabilities As of December 2006 in the US there were 241 pediatricians and 55 child neurologists certified in the subspecialty of Neurodevelopmental Disabilities Thus most of the children with developmental disabilities are seen by pediatricians and therefore it is important for these pediatricians to be well informed of common issues in the field The 60 000 or so pediatricians in the United States and hundreds more in other countries are the main target audience for a practical book on neurodevelopmental pediatrics Clinical Management of Motor Speech Disorders in Children Anthony J.
