that hee that commands the Sea is at great liberty and may take as much and as little of the Warre as he will Whereas those that be strongest by land are many times neverthesse in great Straights Surely at this Day with us of Europe the Vantage of Strength at Sea which is one of the Principall Dowries of this Kingdome of Create Brittain is Great Both because Most of the Kingdomes of Europe are not merely Inland but girt with the Sea most part of their Compasse and because the Wealth of both Indies seemes in great Part but an Accessary to the Command of the Seas The three centuries that have gone by since this was written have afforded ample confirmation of the view here set forth as to the importance of Battailles by Sea and the supreme value of the Command of the Sea Not only we of Europe but our kindred in America and our allies in Far Eastern Asia have now their proudly cherished memories of decisive naval victory About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
