The Young Carthaginian: A Story of the Times of Hannibal George Alfred Henty, 2004 It is afternoon but the sun's rays still pour down with great power upon rock and sand How great the heat has been at midday may be seen by the quivering of the air as it rises from the ground and blurs all distant objects It is seen too in the attitudes and appearance of a large body of soldiers encamped in a grove Their arms are thrown aside the greater portion of their clothing has been dispensed with Some lie stretched on the ground in slumber their faces protected from any chance rays which may find their way through the foliage above by little shelters composed of their clothing hung on two bows or javelins Some lately awakened are sitting up or leaning against the trunks of the trees but scarce one has energy to move The day has indeed been a hot one even for the southern edge of the Libyan desert The cream coloured oxen stand with their heads down lazily whisking away with their tails the flies that torment them The horses standing near suffer more the lather stands on their sides their flanks heave and from time to time they stretch out their extended nostrils in the direction from which when the sun sinks a little lower the breeze will begin to blow The occupants of the grove are men of varied races and although there is no attempt at military order it is clear at once that they are divided into three parties One is composed of men more swarthy than the others They are lithe and active in figure inured to hardship accustomed to the burning sun Light shields hang against the trees with bows and gaily painted quivers full of arrows and near each man are three or four light short javelins They wear round caps of metal with a band of the skin of the lion or other wild animal in which are stuck feathers dyed with some bright colour They are naked to the waist save for a light breastplate of brass A cloth of bright colours is wound round their waist and drops to the knees and they wear belts of leather embossed with brass plates on their feet are sandals They are the light armed Numidian horse Near them are a party of men lighter in hue taller and stouter in stature Their garb is more irregular their arms are bare but they wear a sort of shirt open at the neck and reaching to the knees and confined at the waist by a leather strap from which hangs a pouch of the same material Their shirts which are of roughly made flannel are dyed a colour which was originally a deep purple but which has faded under the heat of the sun to lilac They are a company of Iberian slingers enlisted among the tribes conquered in Spain by the Carthaginians By them lie the heavy swords which they use in close quarters The third body of men are more heavily armed On the ground near the sleepers lie helmets and massive shields They have tightly fitting jerkins of well tanned leather their arms are spears and battleaxes They are the heavy infantry of Carthage Very various is their nationality fair skinned Greeks lie side by side with

The Young Carthaginian a Story of the Times of Hannibal by G.A. Henty G a Henty, 2020-10-05 MY DEAR LADS When I was a boy at school if I remember rightly our sympathies were generally with the Carthaginians as against the Romans Why they were so except that one generally sympathizes with the unfortunate I do not quite know certainly we had but a hazy idea as to the merits of the struggle and knew but little of its events for the Latin and Greek authors which serve as the ordinary textbooks in schools do not treat of the Punic wars That it was a struggle for empire at first and latterly one for existence on the part of Carthage that Hannibal was a great and skilful general that he defeated the Romans at Trebia Lake Trasimenus and Cannae and all but took Rome and that the Romans behaved with bad faith and great cruelty at the capture of Carthage represents I think pretty nearly the sum total of our knowledge I am sure I should have liked to know a great deal more about this struggle for the empire of the world and as I think that most of you would also like to do so I have chosen this subject for my story Fortunately there is no lack of authentic material from which to glean the incidents of the struggle Polybius visited all the passes of the Alps some forty years after the event and conversed with tribesmen who had witnessed the passage of Hannibal and there can be no doubt that his descriptions are far more accurate than those of Livy who wrote somewhat later and had no personal knowledge of the affair Numbers of books have been written as to the identity of the passes traversed by Hannibal The whole of these have been discussed and summarized by Mr W J Law and as it appears to me that his arguments are quite conclusive I have adopted the line which he lays down as that followed by Hannibal In regard to the general history of the expedition and of the manners customs religion and politics of Carthage I have followed M Hennebert in his most exhaustive and important work on the subject I think that when you have read to the end you will perceive that although our sympathies may remain with Hannibal and the Carthaginians it was nevertheless for the good of the world that Rome was the conqueror in the great struggle for empire At the time the war began Carthage was already corrupt to the core and although she might have enslaved many nations she would never have civilized them Rome gave free institutions to the people she conquered she subdued but she never enslaved them but rather strove to plant her civilization among them and to raise them to her own level Carthage on the contrary was from the first a cruel mistress to the people she conquered Consequently while all the peoples of Italy rallied round Rome in the days of her distress the tribes subject to Carthage rose in insurrection against her as soon as the presence of a Roman army gave them a hope of escape from their bondage Had Carthage conquered Rome in the struggle she could never have extended her power over the known world as Rome afterwards did but would have fallen to pieces again from the weakness of her institutions and the corruption of her people Thus then although we may feel sympathy for the failure and fate of the noble and chivalrous Hannibal himself we cannot regret that Rome came out conqueror in the strife and was left free to carry out her great work of civilization Yours sincerely G A Hen The Young Carthaginian: a Story of the Times of Hannibal.
