Trust in International Relations Hiski Haukkala, Carina van de Wetering, Johanna Vuorelma, 2018-04-09 Trust is a core concept in International Relations IR representing a key ingredient in state relations It was only relatively recently that IR scholars began to probe what trust really is how it can be studied and how it affects state relations In the process three distinct ways of theorising trust in IR have emerged trust as a rational choice calculation as a social phenomenon or as a psychological dimension Trust in International Relations explores trust through these different lenses using case studies to analyse the relative strengths and weaknesses of different approaches The case studies cover relations between United States and India ASEAN and Southeast Asian countries Finland and Sweden USA and Egypt The European Union and Russia Turkey s relations with the West This book provides insights with real world relevance in the fields of crisis and conflict management and will be of great interest for students and scholars of IR security studies and development studies who are looking to develop a more sophisticated understanding of how different theories of trust can be used in different situations The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY 4 0 license

Peace and the Sciences, 1987 Transnational Perspectives, 1987 Journal of Economic Literature, 2007 A Theory of Security Strategy for Our Time Shiping Tang, 2010-03-15 Because the world has firmly evolved from an offensive realism world in the past to a defensive realism world in which we live today defensive realism is an appropriate guide for security strategy in our time This book advances a coherent statement of defensive realism as a theory of strategy for our time It adds to our understanding of defensive realism as a grand theory of IR in particular and our understanding of IR in general and contributes to the ongoing debates among major paradigms of international relations

Strategic Peacemakers Molly M. Melin, 2008 Journal of Peace Research, 2010-05 Symposium, 2009 Arms and Disarmament Stockholm International Peace Research Institute, 1986 Since World War II technological arms competition has increasingly militarized international political relations The reversal of this by arms control and disarmament agreements is largely dependent on the provision of well researched information about what is happening the world military sector from an objective non military and neutral source SIPRI has provided such a source and this collection of articles celebrating its twentieth anniversary reflects the broad scope of the Institute s studies in the dynamics of armaments disarmaments and arms control These articles summarize the state of play on a wide range of the topics on which SIPRI has focused These include world military expenditure military research and development the arms trade nuclear weapon stockpiles nuclear weapon testing the neutron bomb the military use of outer space chemical and biological warfare nuclear deterrence and nuclear disengagement

the comprehensive test ban the United Nations and disarmament and public opinion on peace and war These papers provide facts and figures analysis of past trends and future perspectives and SIPRI s conclusions and recommendations

Transnational Law & Contemporary Problems ,2012 International Relations Opening Address, Delivered at Edinburgh, October 6th, 1880 Donald James Mackay Reay,1880 Security and Privacy in Dynamic Environments Simone Fischer-Hübner,2006-04-25 This book contains the Proceedings of the 21st IFIP TC 11 International Information Security Conference IFIPSEC 2006 on Security and Privacy in Dynamic Environments held in May 22-24 2006 in Karlstad Sweden The first IFIPSEC conference was arranged in May 1983 in Stockholm Sweden one year before TC 11 was founded with the active participation of the Swedish IT Security Community The IFIPSEC conferences have since then become the flagship events of TC 11 We are very pleased that we succeeded with our bid to after 23 years hold the IFIPSEC conference again in Sweden The IT environment now includes novel dynamic approaches such as mobility wearability ubiquity ad hoc use mindbody orientation and businessmarket orientation This modern environment challenges the whole information security research community to focus on interdisciplinary and holistic approaches whilst retaining the benefit of previous research efforts Papers offering research contributions focusing on dynamic environments in addition to other aspects of computer security and privacy were solicited for submission to IFIPSEC 2006 We received 141 submissions which were all reviewed by at least three members of the international program committee Anatomy of Mistrust Deborah Welch Larson,1997 The United States and the Soviet Union missed numerous diplomatic opportunities to resolve differences and control the arms race because neither state trusted the other according to Deborah Welch Larson In Anatomy of Mistrust she shows that the goals of Soviet and U S leaders were frequently complementary and an agreement should have been attainable Lost opportunities contributed to bankruptcy for the Soviet Union serious damage to the economy of the United States decreased public support for internationalist policies and a proliferation of nuclear weapons Synthesizing different understandings of trust and mistrust from the theoretical traditions of economics psychology and game theory Larson analyzes five cases that might have been turning points in U S Soviet relations the two year period following Stalin s death in 1953 Khrushchev s peace offensive from the launching of Sputnik until the U 2 incident the Kennedy administration the Nixon Brezhnev detente and the Gorbachev period Larson concludes that leaders in the United States often refused to accept Soviet offers to negotiate because they feared a trap Mutual trust is necessary she concludes although it may not be sufficient for states to cooperate in managing their security Political Confidence and Democracy in Europe Christian Schnaudt,2018-07-09 This book examines the antecedents and consequences of citizens confidence in different political institutions and authorities Its main argument states that a distinction between confidence in representative and regulative institutions and authorities is of crucial importance in order to gain novel insights into the relevance of political confidence for the viability of democratic systems Relying on individual level data from the European Social Survey ESS the author provides empirical evidence that citizens from a total of twenty one European countries make a distinction between confidence in representative institutions and authorities and confidence in regulative institutions and authorities Furthermore the author shows that both types of political confidence emanate from different sources and are associated with varying consequences Overall these findings indicate that confidence in representative and confidence in regulative institutions and authorities establish two qualitatively different types of political confidence each with distinct implications for the functioning and well being of modern democracies
