How African American writers used Victorian literature to create a literature of their own Tackling fraught but fascinating issues of cultural borrowing and appropriation this groundbreaking book reveals that Victorian literature was put to use in African American literature and print culture in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries in much more intricate sustained and imaginative ways than previously suspected From reprinting and reframing The Charge of the Light Brigade in an antislavery newspaper to reimagining David Copperfield and Jane Eyre as mixed race youths in the antebellum South writers and editors transposed and transformed works by the leading British writers of the day to depict the lives of African Americans and advance their causes Central figures in African American literary and intellectual history including Frederick Douglass Frances Ellen Watkins Harper Charles Chesnutt Pauline Hopkins and W E B Du Bois leveraged Victorian literature and this history of engagement itself to claim a distinctive voice and construct their own literary tradition In bringing these transatlantic transfigurations to light this book also provides strikingly new perspectives on both canonical and little read works by Charles Dickens George Eliot Tennyson and other Victorian authors The recovery of these works African American afterlives illuminates their formal practices and ideological commitments and forces a reassessment of their cultural impact and political potential Bridging the gap between African American and Victorian literary studies Reaping Something New changes our understanding of both fields and rewrites an important chapter of literary history Craft ,2007 Travel Guide to South African Craft Sites Eskom Due-South Craft Route Project,2004 Woodworker and Art Metal Worker, and Allied Crafts Journal ,1909 The Metal Crafts ,1930 The McDonaldization of Society 5 George Ritzer,2008 This book has been a fabulous success with students because it combines elements of critical social theory readability and popular culture Charles Frederick Jr Indiana University One of the most noteworthy and popular sociology books of all time The McDonaldization of Society demonstrates the power of the sociological imagination to today s readers in a way that few books have been able to do Key Features of the new edition brand new chapter examining the Starbucks phenomenon and its relationship to McDonaldization updated examples of McDonaldization including online dating services e g match com Viagra MDMA ecstasy text messaging Ikea and megachurches an increased focus on globalization including an examination into the relationship between McDonaldization and the environment American Book Publishing Record Cumulative, 1950-1977 R.R. Handicrafts and do it yourself projects have always been a library's most popular and heavily requested subject And for more than a decade a definitive index to handicraft books has not been published To fill this gap the Science and Technology Department at Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh has compiled the Index to Handicraft Books listing more than 900 books and over 12 400 subject entries covering books published from 1974 to 1984 The Index to Handicraft Books is an essential reference tool for librarians who want to help someone find instructions for a varied range of do it yourself projects providing quick access to craft projects in books more recent than previous handicraft index books have listed Each entry in the index consists of a subject heading the name of the project as listed in the book the author and title of the book and the page numbers on which the project can be found The author and title correspond to those in the List of Works Cited section which gives full bibliographic information in order to help librarians find the book on their shelves or obtain the book through inter library loan Because this index developed from a card file index of craft books acquired by Carnegie Library since 1974 the list concentrates mainly on medium priced books that most libraries buy
