Weep Not, Child Ngũgĩ wa Thiong'ó, 1967 Two brothers Njoroge and Kamau stand on a garbage heap and look into their futures Njoroge is to attend school while Kamau will train to be a carpenter But this is Kenya and the times are against them In the forests the Mau Mau is waging war against the white government and the two brothers and their family need to decide where their loyalties lie For the practical Kamau the choice is simple but for Njoroge the scholar the dream of progress through learning is a hard one to give up The first East African novel published in English Weep Not Child is a moving book about the effects of the infamous Mau Mau uprising on the lives of ordinary men and women and on one family in particular

Ngugi wa Thiong'o, Gender, and the Ethics of Postcolonial Reading Brendon Nicholls, 2016-05-06 This is the first comprehensive book length study of gender politics in Ngugi wa Thiong'o's fiction Brendon Nicholls argues that mechanisms of gender subordination are strategically crucial to Ngugi's ideological project from his first novel to his most recent one Nicholls describes the historical pressures that lead Ngugi to represent women as he does and shows that the novels themselves are symptomatic of the cultural conditions that they address Reading Ngugi's fiction in terms of its Gikuyu allusions and references a gendered narrative of history emerges that creates transgressive spaces for women Nicholls bases his discussion on moments during the Mau Mau rebellion when women's contributions to the anticolonial struggle could not be reduced to a patriarchal narrative of Kenyan history and this interpretive maneuver permits a reading of Ngugi's fiction that accommodates female political and sexual agency Nicholls contributes to postcolonial theory by proposing a methodology for reading cultural difference This methodology critiques cultural practices like clitoridectomy in an ethical manner that seeks to avoid both cultural imperialism and cultural relativism His strategy of performative reading that is making the conditions of one text such as folklore history or translation active in another for example fiction literary narrative or nationalism makes possible an ethical reading of gender and of the conditions of reading in translation     The Book in Africa C. Davis, D.
