Understanding the Development of Small Business Policy Thomas M. Cooney, 2020-04-29 It is not widely understood that the importance of small businesses only became apparent with the publication of David Birch's book The Job Generation Process in 1979. Over the past four decades governments across the globe have struggled to design, implement and evaluate policies that benefit the development of small firms. Deciding whether macro or micro policies are more appropriate for a given context has usually created an initial challenge for policy makers. However, a cause for even greater dispute has been determining and agreeing what might be the preferred outcomes of such policies, e.g. more firms, better performing firms, fewer firm failures, job creation, greater productivity, higher levels of innovation, inclusivity of disadvantaged groups. Furthermore, evaluating the impact of specific policies presents a wide range of difficulties since it is impossible to isolate a simple cause and effect relationship between policy and its stated goal. This book explores the development of small business policy in five countries across five continents and seeks to develop a deeper understanding regarding how small business policy has evolved in these countries and what we might learn from their experiences. This book was originally published as a special issue of Small Enterprise Research.

Who Cares Christopher Howard, 2022-10-11 In Who Cares Christopher Howard focuses on the poor and offers the first comprehensive map of the US social safety net. He chronicles what Americans say about poverty and what we do about it, capturing the views of ordinary citizens, business and labor organizations, churches and other charities, and public officials. Although the US social safety net is extensive, Howard argues that major gaps remain, particularly impacting Blacks, Hispanics, and individuals who are not employed full time. Emphasizing how we have spent many years investigating the poor, this book also shines a light on the behavior and views of the non-poor.
