Semantics and Lexicography
Herbert Ernst Wiegand, 2011-05-02 This volume is a compilation of nine articles translated from German They deal with those lexicographic texts or text excerpts which have been formulated in order to convey the meaning of a lexical unit to a potential dictionary user who is not familiar with that meaning The articles not only critically analyze lexicographic practice in particular the so called lexicographic definitions and the items giving the synonyms in correlation with the examples in the light of different semantic approaches They also present ways towards a common understanding in the context of lexicographically imparting knowledge of meaning i e on the basis of an actional semantics approach which takes into account results obtained from analyses of everyday dialogs about word meanings Moreover they discuss how meaning conveying texts can serve their purposes in dictionary look up situations and they lay out all those aspects which are particularly to be taken into consideration in the formulation of lexicographic texts aimed at conveying meaning in dictionaries belonging to different types

Manual of Specialised Lexicography Henning Bergenholtz, Sven Tarp, 1995-07-14 From 1990 1994 the Danish Research Council for the Humanities granted a research project entitled translation of LSP texts which was initially split up into five part projects one of which has been concerned with LSP lexicography The Manual of Specialised Lexicography is one of the results of the research undertaken by this project The primary purpose of the Manual is to contribute towards an improved basis for practical specialised lexicography which has so far had but a small share in the explosive development that has taken place in general language lexicography since the early 1970s One implication of this is that only to a limited extent has it been possible to build upon existing findings The Manual thus has the twofold aim of offering guidance and direction to authors of specialised dictionaries as well as contributing towards the further development of lexicographical theories

The History of Lexicography R. R. K. Hartmann, 1986-01-01 Most dictionaries have forerunners and all have imitators an understanding of the historical foundations of dictionary making is therefore one of the preconditions of further progress in academic lexicography The papers in this volume which were presented at the 1986 Exeter Seminar survey most of the lexicographical traditions in the world some tracing them right back to their beginnings The programme was divided into eight sessions with the following concentrations of topics 1 three classical traditions 2 the early history of European lexicography 3 the beginnings of English lexicography 4 further aspects of English lexicography 5 the background of diverse national developments 6 specific features of national developments 7 pioneers of three genres 8 recent trends in the English dictionary The Theory of English Lexicography, 1530-1791 Tetsuro Hayashi, 1978 Studies on Multilingual Lexicography María José Domínguez Vázquez, Mónica Mirazo Balsa, Carlos Valcárcel Riveiro, 2019-12-16 Given the new technological advances and their influence and imprint in the design and development of dictionaries and lexicographic resources it seems important to put together a series of publications that address this new situation dealing in particular with multilingual and electronic lexicography in an increasingly digital multilingual and multicultural society This is the main objective of this volume which is structured in two central aspects In the first of them the concept of multilingual lexicography is discussed in regard to the influence that the Internet and the application of digital technologies have exercised and continue to exercise both in the conception and design of dictionaries and new lexicographic application tools as well as the emergence of new types of users and forms of consultation The role of the dictionary must necessarily be related to social development and changes In the second thematic section different dictionaries and resources that focus on a multilingual and electronic approach to the linguistic data for their lexicographical treatment and consultation are presented

Word Studies in the Renaissance Gabriele Stein, 2017 This volume examines the ways in which Renaissance lexicographers selected, described and analysed the lexicon. It explores the extent to which bi- and multilingual word lists and dictionaries in the 16th century are often pan-European in character and discusses the increasing use of typography to present lexical information structure.

The Theory of English Lexicography Tetsuro Hayashi, 1978

Webs of Words John P. Considine, 2010 Webs of Words: New Studies in Historical Lexicology brings together ten papers on aspects of the history of words and vocabulary which address aspects of Chinese, Czech, Dutch, English (including Caribbean varieties), German, Italian, Mori, Persian, Portuguese, Russian and other languages. In the first four essays focussing on pre-1800 material, Karel Kuera and Martin Stluka's opening essay discusses the plotting of the relative historical frequency of common words drawing on their work with the diachronic portion of the Czech National Corpus. Ian Lancashire asks why Tudor England had no monolingual English dictionary. Chiara Benati discusses the interplay between Low German, High German and Latin in an early modern surgical text and Mateusz Urban sorts out the competing etymologies of English balcony, Italian balcone and similar forms in Persian and Russian. The next six turn to more recent material. Jane Samson analyzes the nineteenth-century debate as to whether the Mori language was too primitive to have a word for blue. Vivien Waszink discusses the Dutch prefixes bio- and eco- and their documentation in a new dictionary. Tommaso Pellin examines a series of attempts to provide a grammatical terminology in Chinese. Lise Winer surveys the naming of fauna in the English Creole of Trinidad and Tobago. Mirosława Podhajecka writes on the treatment of Russian loanwords in the current revision of the Oxford English Dictionary with special attention to Google Books as a research tool and Isabel Casanova asks whether Portuguese dictionaries should register English words. The contributions to this volume share an interest in empirical evidence rather than in lexicological study at a highly theoretical level and in the wide contextualization of the words which constitute this evidence in the social and cultural lives of their users.

Principles of Constructing Microstructures in Etymological References Yan Kapranov, Bożena Iwanowska, Bolesław Cieślak, 2024-08-12

The main theme of the volume is the exploration and identification of the fundamental principles involved in constructing and understanding the microstructures found within etymological references. The authors offer an in-depth examination of designing etymological dictionaries focusing on the principles behind constructing their microstructures. It begins by exploring the evolution of lexicographic sources and their role in societal knowledge organization. The work then delves into the methodology of building dictionary entries, discussing the integration of traditional and cognitive-synergetic principles to better capture the linguistic nuances of words. Through comprehensive analysis and detailed examples, this volume provides a profound understanding of how etymological information is systematically organized and presented.

interrelated fields of lexicography terminology and translation One key thing shared by these fields is that they all deal with text Accordingly the essays in this collection are united by the fact that they too are all text based in some way In the majority of essays electronic corpora serve as the textual basis for investigations Chapters focusing on electronic corpora include a description of a tool that can be used to help build specialized corpora in a semi automatic fashion corpus based investigations of terminological knowledge patterns terminological implantation lexicographic information and translation solutions comparisons of corpora to conventional resources such as dictionaries and analyses of corpus processing tools such as translation memory systems In several essays notably those dealing with historical or literary documents the texts in question are specific manuscripts that have been studied with a view to learning more about lexicographic and translation practice The volume is rounded out with a chapter on audiovisual translation that takes a non conventional view of text where text includes film Published in English The Year's Work in Classical Studies ... Classical Association (Great Britain),1916 Lexicographers and Their Works Gregory James,1989
