Peasants in India's Non-Violent Revolution Mridula Mukherjee,2004-09-22 In part one of this volume the political world of the peasants of Punjab is reconstructed capturing their struggles at a national level as well as at an individual one Part Two makes important interventions in the theoretical debates regarding the role of peasants in revolutionary transformation in the modern world The author argues that the association of revolution with large scale violence has resulted in the refusal to recognize the non violent yet revolutionary political practice of peasants in the Indian National Movement

Social Structure and Rural Development in the Third World Guy Berger,1992-10-22 An analysis of the relationship between Third World farmers and the international economy Peasants' Movements in Post-Colonial India Debal K Singharoy,2004-05-25 This is an investigation of the anatomy and internal dynamics of peasant movements in India It makes a comparative analysis of the Tebhaga Bengal 1946 47 Telengana Andhra 1948 52 and Naxalite North Bengal 1967 71 movements to study the ways in which grassroots mobilizations transform and institutionalize themselves forge new collective identities and articulate new strategies for survival and resistance The author uses empirical data and secondary research to argue that radicalism in peasant movements is in inverse proportion to institutionalization As spontaneous expressions of discontent against oppression and marginalization become institutionalized movements the space for radical challenge shrinks Therefore in Bengal the co option of the peasant movement by the ruling communist party and the state has largely killed the scope for radical action In Andhra Pradesh on the other hand the relative independence of the grassroots mobilization process along with logistic and ideological inputs from NGOs and radical social and Naxalite groups has allowed the peasantry to exercise multiple options for collective action However in both cases the grassroots mobilization has led to a transformation of the social identity of the peasant and created a social environment in which issues of dominance and resistance have an important place The study of the Indian experience is placed in the context of theories of peasant identity and resistance to oppression The first chapter of the book is devoted to the summing up of sociological perspectives on peasant societies identities and movements It includes references to the works of Marx and Lenin Redfield Chayanov Wolf and Gramsci and in the Indian context Beteille Byres and several others The book reexamines problems that have got relatively less importance in recent years It seeks to understand issues that are of enduring relevance in the Indian countryside that continues to simmer with unrest even as it comes to grips with a new economic situation The book will be of as much interest to researchers and policymakers as to the intelligent general reader Agrarian Reforms in India D. S. Sastry,1991 A Survey of Research in Economics: Agriculture ,1975 Studies in Roman Economic and Social History Paul Robinson Coleman-Norton,1951 23 essays on various aspects of Roman economic history Indian Journal of Social Research ,1987 Social Movements in India M.
