Studies Of Fingerprint Matching Using The Nist Verification:

Studies of Fingerprint Matching Using the NIST Verification Test Bed Charles L. Wilson, 2004-02 A series of fingerprint matching studies have been conducted on an experimental lab system called the Verification Test Bed VTB The VTB is a collection of commercial off the shelf computer hardware an open source operating system a suite of public domain application software Results are presented that compare various sources of fingerprints assess the image quality of fingerprints by analyzing the matcher scores for inked live scan impressions study the tradeoffs of matching rolled fingerprints with plain impression This report illustrates the wide range of image types quality that exist in gov t fingerprint databases the effect this variability has on the accuracy of matching using a single algorithm Illustrated Studies of Fingerprint Matching Using the NIST Verification Test Bed (VTB) Charles L. Wilson, 2003 Biometric Authentication Davide Maltoni, Anil K. Jain, 2004-09-21 Biometric authentication is increasingly gaining popularity in a large spectrum of applications ranging from government programs e g national ID cards visas for international travel and the fight against terrorism to personal applications such as logical and physical access control Although a number of effective solutions are currently available new approaches and techniques are necessary to overcome some of the limitations of current systems and to open up new frontiers in biometric research and development The 30 papers presented at Biometric Authentication Workshop 2004 BioAW 2004 provided a snapshot of current research in biometrics and identify some new trends This volume is composed of sections facerecognition ngerprintrecognition template protection and security other biometrics and fusion and multimodal biometrics For classical biometrics like ngerprint and face recognition most of the papers in Sect 1 and 2 address robustness issues in order to make the biometric systems work in suboptimal conditions examples include face detection and recognition under uncontrolled lighting and pose variations and ngerprint matching in the case of severe skin distortion Benchmarking and interoperability of sensors and liveness detection are also topics of primary interest for ngerprint based systems Biometrics alone is not the solution for complex security problems Some of the papers in Sect 3 focus on designing secure systems this requires dealing with safe template storage checking data integrity and implementing solutions in a privacy preserving fashion The match on tokens approach provided that current accuracy and cost limitations can be satisfactorily solved by using new algorithms and hardware is certainly a promising alternative The use of new biometric indicators like eye movement 3D nger shape and soft traits e g
