Taxation on Economic Growth in the European Union, 2008 Tax Reforms in EU Member States 2012 European Commission. Directorate-General for Economic and Financial Affairs, European Commission. Directorate-General for Taxation and Customs Union, 2012 The report is prepared jointly by DG ECFIN and DG TAXUD of the European Commission As the previous editions the report analyses recent trends in tax revenues and tax reforms in EU Member States A particular focus of this year's edition is the analysis of the EU VAT system and tax policy challenges faced by EU Member States The report examines the economic and policy implications of the EU VAT system of which it provides an overview of the history and possible future It analyses welfare gains and economic benefits from simplifying VAT procedures and reviews options to reduce VAT fraud and evasion Applying an indicator based approach the report identifies horizontal challenges that EU Member States are currently facing in the area of tax policy These relate to i fiscal consolidation on the revenue side and growth friendly tax structures ii broadness of tax bases in both direct and indirect taxation with a particular focus on corporate tax expenditure iii the need to improve tax governance and iv specific tax issues namely housing taxation environmental taxation and some redistributive aspects of taxation EU Bookshop The Role of Tax Reform in Central and Eastern European Economies Centre for Co-operation with European Economies in Transition, Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, International Monetary Fund, 1991-01-01 A Wind of Change? Gaëlle Garnier, Endre György, Kees Heineken, Milena Mathé, Laura Puglisi, Savino Ruà, Agnieszka Skonieczna, Astrid Van Mierlo, European Commission. Directorate-General for Taxation and Customs Union, 2014 This paper reviews the tax reforms implemented by EU Member States since the adoption of the first country specific recommendations in the framework of the Europe 2020 strategy Even though there is a need for more action as evidenced by the number of tax recommendations overall many Member States have put in place reforms that follow the logic of the EU policy recommendations in most priority areas A large number of Member States have recently introduced targeted reductions in the tax burden on labour and have shifted the tax burden towards less detrimental tax bases although these changes have been of a limited magnitude Tax incentives to support research and development have grown in importance and have contributed to sustaining R D investment during the crisis Regarding private debt which was one of the roots of the crisis several Member States have taken measures to reduce the debt bias in their tax system Almost half of the Member States have shifted some of the tax burden to recurrent immovable property taxes even if significant increases were only observed in a few countries Finally many Member States have worked on strengthening tax compliance with some of them reporting tangible financial results However progress has been more limited in relation to environmental tax reforms and VAT Reform and Harmonization of Company Tax Systems in the European Union Sijbren Cnossen, 1996 This paper reviews current company tax systems in the EU and examines various options for reform and harmonization Tax and Benefit Reform in Central and Eastern Europe David M. G. Newbery, Centre for Economic Policy Research (Great Britain), 1995 This book takes stock of the first five years of fiscal reform in the transitional economies of Central and Eastern Europe comparing the structures of taxation and expenditure between countries with the European Union and over time The research concentrates on the experience of the Visegrád nations Hungary Poland and the Czech and Slovak Republics since these countries were in the forefront of the transitional process and have made the most progress with tax reform They all also have a strong statistical tradition that allows the transition process to be studied in great detail going beyond the macro aggregates to probe the efficiency and distributional impact of reforms at the household and enterprise level the studies analyze survey data ranging in size from several hundred enterprises to over 100 000 individuals The book divides into three pairs of chapters the first pair examines the impact of tax and benefit reforms on households the second deals with the taxation of enterprises in many ways the pivot of tax reform and the sector presenting some of the greatest challenges and the third focuses on the critical area of labour market policy where institutions have had to be created from virtually nothing in a very short period Taken together these contributions teach important lessons about the design sequencing and impact of tax and benefit reforms not only for further reforms in the Visegrád nations but also for countries further east

Company Tax Reform in the European Union Joann

Martens-Weiner,2006-03-14 Having spent almost fifty years of my life defending the separate accounting arm's length pricing method I have to admit that I was somewhat surprised to be asked to contribute to a book suggesting that the European Union might do well to consider adopting a formulary approach to deal with the taxation of inter and intra company transactions I was even more surprised to see the invitation coming from Ms Joann Weiner an ardent co defender of arm's length pricing and my strong right arm in that regard while we both served in the U S Treasury Department in the mid 90s The book gives Ms Weiner the opportunity to comment frankly from an insider's perspective of the many admitted problems of the arm's length system which could be avoided by a formulary approach Ms Weiner brings to this project a thorough expert knowledge of the benefits and shortfalls of each of the systems she discusses separate accounting v formulary apportionment Who better to decide to give qualified support to formulary than someone who organized a U S Treasury conference to defend arm's length pricing against a Congressional challenge in favor of formulary apportionment

Structures of the Taxation Systems in the European Union European Commission. Directorate-General for Taxation and the Customs Union,2006 This publication contains time series of tax data from national accounts for the 25 EU member states and Norway covering the period 1995-2004 available in the European System of Accounts ESA95 format It gives a breakdown of taxes according to three types of classification by major type of tax such as direct and indirect taxes and social contributions by level of government central state and local government social security funds and the European institutions and by economic function consumption labour and capital It also includes implicit tax rates on consumption labour capital and energy consumption

The transition from a command to a market economy requires profound reforms of the tax system Such a transition will put downward pressures on the level of taxation at a time when public expenditure remains high This paper outlines the main characteristics of the tax systems in centrally planned economies It describes recent changes in those tax systems Finally it discusses the major difficulties that will be faced and the errors that must be avoided during the transition
