Benjamin Disraeli

The English Constitution:

The English Constitution Walter Bagehot, 1867 There is a great difficulty in the way of a writer who attempts to sketch a living Constitution a Constitution that is in actual work and power The difficulty is that the object is in constant change An historical writer does not feel this difficulty he deals only with the past he can say definitely the Constitution worked in such and such a manner in the year at which he begins and in a manner in such and such respects different in the year at which he ends he begins with a definite point of time and ends with one also But a contemporary writer who tries to paint what is before him is puzzled and a perplexed what he sees is changing daily He must paint it as it stood at some one time or else he will be putting side by side in his representations things which never were contemporaneous in reality
