When Sparks Fly Igniting Creativity In Groups:

When Sparks Fly Dorothy Leonard-Barton, Walter C. Swap, 1999 How does a leader manage for creativity Many managers fall into the trap of assuming that only gifted individuals readily identifiable creative types can produce breakthrough thinking and if you don't have an eccentric genius on your team your efforts are doomed to mediocrity Some even argue that creativity is an art that can't possibly be planned or managed without extinguishing the vital creative spark Yet say Dorothy Leonard and Walter Swap today's most innovative complex services products and processes spring from well led well managed group interactions Blending their backgrounds in business and psychology into a fresh perspective Leonard and Swap sweep aside conventional thinking about creativity to show how managers can actively shape group processes to enhance creative output They offer proven strategies based on a deep understanding of human behavior for stimulating and directing the group dynamics that lie at the heart of innovative thinking The book clearly outlines and analyzes each step in the creative process and gives practical suggestions for managing creative teams including specific techniques for composing groups to maximize creative abrasion re channeling the tensions of conflicting points of view into new ideas and alternative options and failing forward to success Leonard and Swap explore how all aspects of the work environment from leadership style to the promotion of passion to the use of space to maximize serendipity can enhance innovation Drawing on examples in companies that range from small startups to Fisher Price Intel and Hewlett Packard When Sparks Fly shows how sophisticated managers can galvanize groups to maximize their creative potential

Innovation leadership: Roles and key imperatives Jill Hender, 2003 When You Say Yes But Mean No Leslie Perlow, 2003-05-20 We live in a culture especially at work that prefers harmony over discord agreement over dissent speed over deliberation We often smile and nod to each other even though deep down we could not disagree more Whether with colleagues friends or family members the tendency to paper over differences rather than confront them is extremely common We believe that the best thing to do to preserve our relationships and to ensure that our work gets done as expeditiously as possible is to silence conflict Let's face it most bosses don't encourage us to share our differences Indeed many people are taught that loyal employees accept corporate values policies and decisions never challenging or questioning them If we want to hold on to our jobs and move up in our organizations stifling conflict is the safest way to do it or so we believe And it is not just with our bosses that we fear raising a dissenting opinion We worry about what our peers and even our subordinates may think of us We don't want to embarrass ourselves or create a bad impression We don't want to lose others' respect or risk rejection We often associate conflict with its negative form petty bickering heated arguing a bloody fight But conflict can also be a source of creative energy when handled constructively by both parties differences can lead to a healthy and fruitful collaboration creation or construction of new knowledge or solutions When we silence conflict we avoid the possibility of negative conflict but we also miss the potential for constructive conflict Worse yet as Leslie Perlow documents the act of silencing conflict may create the consequences we most dread Tasks frequently take longer or never get done successfully and silencing conflict over important issues with people for whom we care deeply can result in disrespect for and devaluing of those same people Each time we silence conflict we create an environment in which we're all the more likely to be silent next time We get caught in a vicious silent spiral making the relationship progressively less safe less satisfying and less productive Differences get glossed over patched over and suppressed until disaster happens Saying yes when you really mean no is a problem that haunts organizations from start-ups to multi-nationals It exists across industries levels and functions And it's exacerbated by a down economy when the fear of losing one's job is on everybody's mind and the idea of allowing conflict to surface or disagreeing with others seems particularly risky All too often the conversation at work bespeaks harmony and togetherness even though passionate disagreements exist beneath the surface Leslie A Perlow is a corporate ethnographer an anthropologist of corporate culture Anthropologists like Margaret Mead spend years in the field studying exotic cultures Perlow does the same although the field for her is the office and the exotic people are us those who work in the world of organizations But the end result is no less surprising or rich in insight Whether it's a Fortune 500 firm small business or government bureaucracy Perlow provides a keen understanding of the hidden issues behind what people say and don't say And more important she shows how to create relationships where individuals feel empowered to express their genuine thoughts and feelings and to harness the power of positive conflict
