Leading Edge Antioxidants Research Harold V. Panglossi, 2007 In biological systems the normal processes of oxidation plus a minor contribution from ionising radiation produce highly reactive free radicals These can readily react with and damage other molecules In some cases the body uses free radicals to destroy foreign or unwanted objects such as in an infection However in the wrong place the body's own cells may become damaged Should the damage occur to DNA the result could be cancer Antioxidants decrease the damage done to cells by reducing oxidants before they can damage the cell Virtually all studies of mammals have concluded that a restricted calorie diet extends the lifespan of mammals by as much as 100% This remarkable finding suggests that food is actually more damaging than smoking As food produces free radicals oxidants when metabolised antioxidant rich diets are thought to stave off the effects of ageing significantly better than diets lacking in antioxidants The reduced levels of free radicals resulting from a reduction in their production by metabolism is thought to be a major cause of the success of caloric restriction in increasing life span Antioxidants consist of a group of vitamins including vitamin C vitamin E selenium and carotenoids such as beta carotene lycopene and lutein This new book brings together the latest
