The work offers more than 5,000 three to five star entries: three stars good, four stars excellent, five stars masterpiece and yes author Jay Robert Nash has viewed every single one of them as well as many more that did not make the cut. In addition to a precis each film's entry also includes a listing of the cast as well as the key principles involved in production from the director to the hair stylist. Especially unique to this book is a rating system that helps parents determine whether or not a film is appropriate for their children. Unlike the industry rating system which can be influenced by studio lobbying Nash objectively evaluates each film and confers upon it one of four recommendations for viewing: recommended, acceptable, cautionary and unacceptable. Backmatter includes a list of top films by genre: i.e. animated, drama, sports, mystery, adventure etc as well as an annotated name index listing all persons mentioned along with their dates of birth and death. Rounding out this essential volume for the film buff are over 500 still photos from the author's private collection.

The British Veterinary Journal, 1918 When Flying Was Fun! Bill Eads, 2007-01-15 When Flying Was Fun is an autobiographical collection of aviation anecdotes covering four decades of flying starting with the sixties. These humorous and sometimes poignant stories are told from a first person perspective by the author who was a Naval Aviator during the Vietnam War and spent over thirty years as an airline pilot with United Airlines. These memoirs relate to those days when pilots actually flew airplanes before the days of glass cockpits and computer operated flights. Those were the days when passengers dressed up in their Sunday finest for a trip to the airport to go on a flight that would take them on the adventure of their lives. This was a time when airline pilots and flight attendants looked and felt sharp as they strode to their airplanes with pride in their uniforms and the feeling that they truly were part of the most glamorous profession in America.
