What Will The World Be Like:

Run the World Like a Girl Kate Graham, 2025-10-14 Girls and women make up half the world's population but there is a long way to go to see the same representation in politics Today's girls can make that number grow Run the World Like a Girl tells the inspirational stories of twelve girls from across the globe who became leaders of their countries Who were they as young people What motivated them Although they came from different backgrounds and different paths they shared the same desire for positive change and the belief that they could be the ones to bring it Vigdis Finnbogadóttir of Iceland was the first woman to be democratically elected as president of a country Benazir Bhutto of Pakistan was the first woman elected to lead a democratic government in a Muslim majority country Jacinda Ardern of New Zealand was the first woman to have a baby during her time as Prime Minister Kamala Harris is one of only two women to come within reach of being President of the United States All twelve extraordinary girls in this book and the powerful women they became show us how to Run the World

Financial World, 1921 Everybody's Magazine, 1920 Handing Down the Faith Christian Smith, Amy Adamczyk, 2020-07-02 A new examination of how and why American religious parents seek to pass on religion to their children The most important influence shaping the religious and spiritual lives of children youth and teenagers is their parents A myriad of studies show that the parents of American youth play the leading role in shaping the character of their religious and spiritual lives even well after they leave home and often for the rest of their lives We know a lot about the importance of parents in faith transmission However we know much less about the actual beliefs feelings and activities of the parents themselves what Christian Smith and Amy Adamczyk call the intergenerational transmission of religious faith and practice To address that gap this book reports the findings of a new national study of religious parents in the United States The findings and conclusions in Handing Down the Faith are based on 215 in depth personal interviews with religious parents from many traditions and different parts of the country and sophisticated analyses of two nationally representative surveys of American parents about their religious parenting Handing Down the Faith explores the background beliefs informing how and why religious parents seek to pass on religion to their children examines how parenting styles interact with parent religiousness to shape effective religious transmission shows how parents have been influenced by their experiences as children influenced by their own parents reveals how religious parents view their congregations and what they most seek out in a local church synagogue temple or mosque explores the experiences and outlooks of immigrant parents including Latino Catholics East Asian Buddhists South Asian Muslims and Indian Hindus Smith and Adamczyk step back to consider how American religion has transformed over the last 100 years and to explain why parents today shoulder such a huge responsibility in transmitting religious faith and practice to their children The book is rich in empirical evidence and unique in many of the topics it explores and explains providing a variety of sometimes counterintuitive findings that will interest scholars of religion social scientists interested in the family parenting and socialization clergy and religious educators and leaders and religious parents themselves

The Baptist Home Mission Monthly ,1900 Making Jeans Green Paulina Szmydke-Cacciapalle,2018-05-20 Consumers spend approximately 93 billion on denim products every year This consumption comes at a great cost with thousands of litres of fresh water hazardous chemicals and energy contributing to just one pair of jeans leaving the environment and the industry vulnerable to pollution and climate change Using facts figures case studies and anecdotes this book investigates why the industry has been so slow to adopt green technologies and offers practical solutions to designers and fashion executives who want to switch to cleaner manufacturing including those working in the fast fashion sector It also offers advice to the eco conscious consumer who wants to purchase denim more sustainably Considering the full lifecycle of a pair of jeans from the cotton crop to disposal it presents examples of how to go green at different stages This book will be of great interest to fashion students and researchers as well as designers fashion executives policy makers and anyone who comes into contact with the world of denim
