Mustang Dedicated at Airport

Sculpture honoring Lieutenant Jack Shively dedicated at Shively Airfield

By Elliott Davis

Dozens gathered for the dedication of a bronze sculpture honoring Lt. Jack Shively in the parking lot of Shively Airfield late-Saturday Morning.

The dedication featured a VFW Honor Guard, speeches and a fly-over performed by Steve Dyer.

Dedicated by the Glode family, the sculpture is titled "Mustang Warrior" and was created by Chris Navarro.

The bronze P-51 Mustang is a tribute to Lt. Jack Shively, who served in the Army Air Corps 58th Fighter Squadron and lost his life in combat over Chino, France on June 13, 1944.

"Today we honor not just Jack," Mayor Chuck Davis said, "but all who wore the uniform, our current armed forces and especially those who gave the ultimate sacrifice like Jack did. Our veterans have stood tall defending the ideals and freedoms of democracy that we hold dear."

"One of the Saratoga's most important assets"

The statue and picnic benches are just the beginning of the beautification project which has been in the works for the past year. The Airport Advisory Board plans to add an arch over the parking lot entrance as well.

"It's the crowning jewel of the entrance and tells Jack's story very well."

— Airport Advisory Board President Lance Grubb on the sculpture

"As Mayor, I'm very proud of the dedication, according to Board President Lance Grubb. The Airport brings thousands of people into town a year and changed the Valley forever.

"Shively Field is one of the Saratoga's most important assets," Grubb said. "It takes an otherwise sleepy rural town, puts us on the map and shows the rest of the world what we as a community have to offer."

Having the Airport tied with the legacy of the Glode family is wonderful, Grubb said.

"For quite some time the Board had been trying to make the entrance a little more attractive," Grubb said. "We couldn't be happier that the Glode family came up with the sculpture idea. It's the crowning jewel of the entrance and tells Jack's story very well."

Following Airport Board member Hugh Huggins thanked the Glode's for their impact on the community and thanked the artist, the said, "This isn't a building in this town that doesn't have something from Shively Hardware in it."

Attendees admire the new monument.

The beautification was accomplished using donations and airport fees as opposed to tax payer dollars, Huggins said.

"What you see in the landscaping and everything was done by the airport that fly in here," Huggins said. "We charge them to land here, it didn't come from the taxpayers in town. So when you see improvement, you know they come from the guys who fly into here throughout the day."

Lindy Glode was the final speaker at the dedication. "Thank you all for being here today," Glode said. "To our veterans, we see you and we thank you. Your service has not been forgotten and your sacrifice will always be remembered - this project was a labor of love for my husband, Mike, his siblings and their late mother Jane Glode. It was a pleasure collaborating with the people of this community on this beautiful project."

Mayor Chuck Davis leads the ceremony.

moment the desire to go back to my own people but now it returned with double force It was not likely that my warning of the coming battle could be of much value for our forces were vigilant but I had the natural desire of youth to be with our own army and not with that of the enemy at the coming of such a great event But the chance for my return looked very doubtful Both armies were too busy to pay heed to a flag of truce even if it could be seen in the night I wandered about looking for some means of escape to our own lines and in seeking to reach the other side of the camp passed once more through the space in which the women and children lay I saw a little one roomed house abandoned long since by its owners The uncertain light from the window fought with the shadows outside I stepped to the window which was open and looked in They had turned the place into a hospital A doctor with sharp instruments in his hand was at work A woman with strong white arms bare almost to the shoulder was helping him She turned away presently her help not needed just then and saw my face at the window Dick she said in a tone low but not too low to express surprise why haven't you returned to the army
