Wildlife Conservation Evaluation Michael Usher, 1986-06-19 Wildlife Conservation Evaluation Michael Usher, 2012-12-06 In the mid 1970s two events led me to get to know the Yorkshire Dales better than I had previously Since 1964 I had been to the Malham Tarn Field Centre with groups of students first from the University of Edinburgh and then from the University of York and my family very much enjoyed the summer days we spent amid this magnificent hill scenery In 1976 the British Ecological Society and the National Trust jointly worked on a survey of the biological interest of the National Trust properties of the Kent East Anglian and Yorkshire Regions Malham Tarn itself and the surrounding farms formed one of the twenty properties of the Yorkshire Region I spent the bank holiday that commemorated the Queen s Silver Jubilee at Malham looking fairly closely at the National Trust s landholding there Miss Sarah Priest who also looked at the National Trust properties and I produced a report in late 1977 attempting both to describe and to evaluate the nature resources of the National Trust in Yorkshire In the following year 1978 the Nature Conservancy Council wanted to survey the whole of the upland area that was known as the Malham Arncliffe SSSI Site of Special Scientific Interest A contract to look at such an exciting area considering where boundaries should go and looking to see if there were important areas of habitat that should be brought within the SSSI was a superb practical antidote to an office in the University Evaluation and Assessment for Conservation Ian Spellerberg, 1992-09-10 Most politicians have jumped on the conservation bandwagon and nobody running for public office these days can afford to take an overtly anti environment stand The fascination that children have for nature the generous donations people make to conservation organizations the votes cast for Green Parties the continuing popularity of zoos and wildlife films and the strong sales of books about the environment all provide evidence to politicians that the general public supports the idea of conservation Conservation has become a major issue for governments No longer is it necessary for conservationists to campaign for getting the cause on the agenda it is already there at least as a talking point The issue now is how to convert this generalized interest into real action And among the many priorities competing for attention how is a government or a private organization to decide what to do first From a very limited budget for budgets will always be limited what is the package of activities that is most likely to lead to the results that the public wants Ian Spellerberg attempts to address these questions which are at the heart of modern conservation action It is relatively easy to prescribe useful activities that will benefit both the environment and the public at large Habitat Evaluation for Wildlife Conservation and Management Leonard B. Khalil, 2020-02-15 Here are the tools and skills needed to conduct meaningful comprehensive evaluations How do we know if a conservation education or outreach program is working Practical Evaluation for Conservation Education and Outreach

Assessing Impacts Enhancing Effectiveness presents a simple approach to using evaluation to design monitor and assess education and outreach It is for anyone whose organization or work involves creating educational programs designed to raise conservation awareness and promote pro conservation behaviors Even more than a how to book it can help you to build your organization s capacity to conduct meaningful comprehensive evaluations The book s purpose is to provide specific skills and knowledge that they can immediately put to use in conducting evaluation studies of conservation education programs The reader will build an understanding that Evaluation yields useful information Evaluation should be a part of a program s design process Evaluation can be a positive experience Evaluation contributes to conservation education and outreach program s success The reader will build their knowledge of Key evaluation terms and concepts The relationship between evaluation and research How evaluation processes and finding can contribute to decision making The strengths and weaknesses of different evaluation approaches and data collection methods The relationship among a program s goals objective activities and expected outcomes The readers will be able to Develop and refine key evaluation questions Review and contribute to an evaluation plan Construct and improve data collection instruments Collect credible and reliable data Interpret results and draw conclusions This book provides practical advice on conducting evaluation that is specific for conservation professionals Case studies describe how evaluation has led to program improvements in a range of conservation settings While there are numerous books that describe how to conduct program evaluation none provide specific examples and tools relevant to improving environmental outcomes

A Social-ecological Evaluation of Conservation Markets for Wildlife Melanie Sturm,2014 Many wildlife species that are essential to human livelihoods are targeted with the aim of extracting short term benefits Overexploitation resulting from failed common pool resource governance has endangered the sustainability of large animal species in particular Rights based approaches to wildlife conservation offer a possible path forward In a wildlife market property rights or shares of an animal population are allocated to resource users with interests in either harvest or preservation Here I apply the Social Ecological Systems SES framework Ostrom 2009 to identify the conditions under which the ecological social and economic outcomes of a conservation market are improved compared to the status quo I first consider three case studies Bighorn sheep white rhino and Atlantic Bluefin tuna all of which employ different market mechanisms Based on the SES framework and these case studies I then evaluate whether markets are a feasible management option for other socially and ecologically significant species such as whales and similar highly migratory species and whether market instruments are capable of accommodating non consumptive environmental values in natural resource decision making My results suggest that spatial and temporal distribution ethical and cultural relevance and institutional histories compatible with commodification of wildlife are key SES subsystem variables Successful conservation markets for cross boundary marine species such as whales sea turtles and sharks will require intergovernmental agreements

Bell,Earl D. McCoy,H.R. Mushinsky,2012-12-06 We conceived the idea for this book after teaching a graduate seminar on Habitat Complexity at The University of South Florida Discussions during the seminar led us to conclude that similar goals were to be found in studies of the topic that spanned the breadth of ecological research Yet the exact meaning of habitat structure and the way in which it was measured seemed to differ widely among subdisciplines Our own research which involves several sorts of ecology convinced us that the differences among subdisciplines were indeed real ones and that they did inhibit communication We decided that interchange of ideas among researchers working in marine ecology plant animal interactions physiological ecology and other more or less independent fields would be worthwhile in that it might lead to useful generalizations about habitat structure To foster this interchange of ideas we organized a symposium to attract researchers working with a wide variety of organisms living in many habitats but united in their interest in the topic of habitat structure The symposium was held at The University of South Florida s Chinsegut Hill Conference Center in May 1988 We asked participants to think about habitat structure in new ways to synthesize important but fragmented information and perhaps to consider ways of translating ideas across systems The chapters contained in this book reflect the participants attempts to do so The book is divided into four parts by major themes that we have found useful categorizations
