Tacitus, and Other Roman Studies Gaston Boissier, 2015-06-11 Excerpt from Tacitus and Other Roman Studies The Romans had a very just appreciation of the merit of their historians Quintilian in his rapid survey of the writers of his country asserts that there are three literary forms in which they bear comparison with those of Greece Satire he says is wholly ours In the elegy we are their rivals Our historians take no lower place than theirs Let us note that when Quintilian thus expressed himself he was unacquainted with the works of Tacitus that is to say of the greatest man among them In his time it was a question for dispute whether Sallust or Livy were preeminent The classicists preferred Livy who delighted them by the pure and abundant flow of his eloquence The new school was fascinated by the vigorous strokes and the profundity of Sallust and Martial who liked to embody in well turned verses the opinions of his time had no hesitation in saying Crispus romana primus in historia To day we rank Tacitus above the two others he even enjoys the privilege in the decline of classical studies of preserving all his popularity Not only is he read still though the ancient authors have scarce any longer readers but to speak of him is almost a claim to be read About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
