Territorial Competition In An Integrating Europe:

Territorial Competition in an Integrating Europe Paul C. Cheshire, Ian R. Gordon, 1995 Territorial Competition in an Integrating Europe P. C. Cheshire, Ian Gordon, 1995 This book presents the first set of studies of the new forms in inner city competition in Europe stimulated by the creation of the new single European market The studies undertaken by an international team of scholars from France Italy The Netherlands Sweden Switzerland and the UK provide comparative analyses of the competitive activities of local agencies and their relevance to businesses locational decision making and processes of economic change at the establishment level This is done through systematic studies both of policy and of a substantial sample of establishments in selected leading metropolitan regions London and the South East Stockholm The Randstad Milan and Zurich Regional Competition Peter W.J. Batey, Peter Friedrich, 2013-03-14 Many parts of the world are currently experiencing the outcome of processes of economic integration globalization and transformation Technological advances in telecommunications and in transport facilities have opened up new possibilities for contracts and exchanges among regions External effects among regions have increased in importance As a result competition among regions has intensified Except some pioneering work by regional scientists and scholars of public finance and economics the phenomenon of regional competition has yet to attract the attention it warrants despite its importance for policy making The present volume is intended to remedy this neglect by providing high level contributions to the three main topics of the book the theory of regional competition methods of analysis of regional competition and policies of regional competition

Integration and Transition in Europe Grzegorz Gorzelak, Gunther Maier, George Petrakos, 2013-01-11 With the harmonization of the EU economies and issues of EU enlargement and integration with Europe's transition economies topping the political agenda the economic geography of Europe is being recast This important volume analyses the spatial implications of the integration transition process and examines key issues such as north south and east west divides regional cooperation and cross border dynamics Theories of Endogenous Regional Growth Börje Johansson, Charlie Karlsson, Roger R. Stough, 2012-12-06 During the last two decades a new growth theory has emerged often labelled endogenous economic growth The contributions in the book develop these advances into a theoretical framework for endogenous regional economic growth and explain the implications for regional economic policies in the perspective of the new century Endogenous growth models can reflect increasing returns and hence refer more adequately to empirical observations than earlier models and the models become policy relevant because in endogenous growth models policy matters Such policies comprise efforts to stimulate the growth of knowledge intensity of the labour supply and knowledge production in the form of R D Learning, Innovation and Urban Evolution David F. Batten, Cristoforo Sergio Bertuglia, Dino Martellato, Sylvie Occelli, 2012-12-06 In the global information society innovation is a highly pervasive process that influences all facets of human life cultural economic political and institutional A desire to comprehend the impacts of innovative change on so many areas of urban life prompted the research project that has resulted in the publication of this volume Our research confirms that we are presently in the midst of an era of rapid and explosive change The primary engine driving this latest transformation of the post industrial society is generally thought to be technological But such an explanation is too narrow Broadly speaking the age in which we find ourselves could be more aptly described as a global knowledge intensive age Many of today s knowledge intensive activities like research and development R D programs are being conducted with relative ease on a multinational scale As well as science having an increasing impact on processes of innovation R D activities also have become more complex We can observe a growing sophistication of learning by doing among creative economic agents This more sophisticated era of global knowledge exchange is facilitated by major advances in our infrastructure networks In this highly interactive world many innovations are by products of collective exchanges between cities far apart simplified by the ease of transport and communication Thus there is a need for us to look more closely at various collective sequences of learning knowledge exchange and innovation in a spatial setting This is the primary purpose of this book

Competition and Economic Integration in Europe Saul Estrin, Peter Holmes, 1998 Competition and Economic Integration in Europe explores the relationship between competition policy and economic integration in the enlarging European Union It contains valuable contributions from academics and officials from inside and outside the European Union as well as offering a transatlantic perspective on the enabling effect of competition policy on deepening European integration This book examines the importance of competition policy in the Europe Agreements signed with the Central and East European countries whilst emphasizing that agreement on the adoption of competition rules is just one element in the complex process of accession to the European Union The book argues that harmonization of competition policy along EU lines across the wider Europe is necessary to create a culture of competition among the European partner countries The contributors examine the actual and potential roles of competition policy as a regulator of cross border flows an agent for the removal of trade barriers and as one of a number of measures to enable a move towards free trade Competition policy is also advocated as a framework for business behaviour in order to eradicate unfair competition and as a foundation for the privatization programmes of governments The book concludes with a postscript linking the argument of the book with the European Commission s Agenda 2000 report of July 1997 This book will prove invaluable to academics and students in the field of transition economics the economics of the European Union comparative institutions and industrial policy

European integration Paul C. Cheshire, Ian R. Gordon, 1993 National Adaptation to European Integration Markus Haverland, 1999 Regional Cohesion and Competition in the Age of Globalization Hirotada Kōno, Peter Nijkamp, Jacques Poot, 2000 This text discusses issues including the impact and implications of European expansion as well as developments in the Asia Pacific region It also examines the driving forces backgrounds obstacles and opportunities for regions to become powerful global players The work contains much empirical material and is supported by a thorough investigation of the theory and methodology of policy strategies for the positioning of regions in the new global economy

The Competitiveness of the European City and the Role of Urban Management in Improving the City's Performance Ilaria Bramezza, 1996 The aim of this book is to illustrate the concept of urban competitiveness and to show how present day cities should approach this phenomenon given the increased complexity of the urban environment The first part focuses on the reasons for cities behaving in a logic of competition the definition of urban competitiveness and urban functions and the role of urban management in improving the performance of cities The second part presents the analysis of urban competitiveness and management strategies in the Central Veneto Italy and Rotterdam The Netherlands regions The aim is to see if these regions currently very competitive in specific urban functions could develop new urban functions without jeopardising their performance in existing competitive functions Transport Networks in Europe Kenneth Button, Peter Nijkamp, Hugo Priemus, 1998 Revision of papers presented at the European Research Conference Policies on European Networks held by the Network on European Communications and Transport Activity Research in Portugal April 17 23 1995 European Spatial Research and Policy, 2006 Territorial Competition and Political Restructuring in Western Europe Michael Keating, 1998 Governing the Metropolis Eduardo Rojas, Juan R.
