Tella, 2007-06-30 Nowadays we are fortunate enough to be experiencing a boom in human rights an enormous increase of their importance in the international sphere at all levels political economic social legal and moral For the first time the condition of the individual as citizen and not just as subject has gained importance Individuals and not only states have now become the subjects of international law as a result of the boom in humanitarian law and international criminal law. However, although there have been many battles won and goals met concerning human rights, the war against injustice continues and the fight has not ended. It is necessary to stay alert and to avoid a potentially paralyzing self-complacency. This collection focusses on topics that are particularly relevant for the present era. It examines issues such as multiculturalism, globalization, international criminal justice, specifically third and fourth generation rights, and within this thematic framework, the problems that have come about as a result of the expanding reach of the Internet and of new biomedical advances. In addition, it explores the increasingly urgent challenge of how to respond to international terrorism in view of worldwide events since September 11, 2001 and its resulting aftermath. Originally published in Spanish, this thought-provoking collection will be of interest to human rights scholars and practitioners alike.

If subjecting war to law is one of the most important legal achievements of the 20th century, progressing further in that direction is one of the most important challenges for the 21st century. The problems it poses are many: the term war has formally fallen into disuse and we talk about peacekeeping armies; today, the product of cooperation between states and international organizations, private contractors increasingly participate in warlike activities as the case of the Iraq war demonstrates, and the lines between war and very serious forms of crime, terrorism, organized crime, are increasingly blurred. This volume compiles the contributions presented at XVth International Congress on Social Defence and tackle the criminal legal issues raised by these new scenarios. It constitutes an innovative volume gathering together the work of both academic and military authors who have drawn on their theoretical and practical experience.

This is a comparative study of the most outstanding emergency measures, legal, administrative and executive, which are part of certain European anti-terrorist legal systems. It also highlights the existence of sufficient similarities between common and civil legal systems within the EEC framework to justify a more fluid integration between the relevant states, seeking not only fuller European co-operation but also a prospective single jurisdiction to deal with the challenge of terrorism.
