Testicular Tangrams:

Testicular Tangrams F.F.G. Rommerts, K.J. Teerds, 2013-06-29 During the past two decades research on the testis has created a vast number of publications. New techniques such as cell and gene cloning, germ cell manipulation and transplantation as well as gene expression have surpassed the classical approaches that involved studies on receptor activation and endocrine, paracrine and autocrine regulatory mechanisms. Due to the expansion of this field of research it has become increasingly difficult to integrate the large number of observations and relate them to the physiology and pathophysiology of the testis. More emphasis must therefore be put on the integration of isolated findings and the construction of the total picture. In order to stimulate this specific mental activity we have named this book Testicular Tangram. We hope that the chapters in this book will be used as pieces of the testicular puzzle and that the reader enjoys composing new shapes. The chapters of this book are representative of the plenary lectures presented at the 11th European Workshop on Molecular and Cellular Endocrinology of the Testis held in Doorwerth, The Netherlands from April 6-10, 2002. Publication of this book has been made possible by the generous support of the Ernst Schering Research Foundation. We would also like to thank the distinguished scientists who have provided us with their excellent manuscripts well before the start of the Workshop. We acknowledge the help of Dr U.F. Habenicht, Dr M.

Regulation of Sertoli Cell and Germ Cell Differentiation R. Brehm, Klaus Steger, 2005-12-12 Unwanted childlessness affects approximately one in six couples worldwide though the exact proportion of the predominant cause of the problem remains controversial according to the World Health Organization (WHO). In nearly 40% of cases the cause can be attributed to the female, in 20% to the male, in 25% to both and in 15% the cause remains unknown. Based on these figures the incidence of male factor infertility in the general population is approximately 7% The majority of these men approximately 30% experience irreversible idiopathic infertility and cannot father children without some form of medical intervention Male factor infertility in addition may be caused by testicular germ cell cancer which is known to represent the most common cancer among young men aged 15 to 35 years in Western industrialized countries The number of affected men has increased dramatically over the past 50 years There is now growing evidence that human testicular germ cell cancer originates from fetal germ cells exhibiting an aberrant programme of gene expression and tumour progression may be favoured by an aberrant Sertoli cell germ cell communication New Mechanisms for Tissue-Selective Estrogen-Free Contraception H.B. Croxatto, R. Schürmann, U. Fuhrmann, I. Schellschmidt, 2007-01-19 Combined oral contraceptives are the most convenient and accepted method of hormonal contraception Nevertheless the medical community and consumers constantly demand innovation additional benefits during use and lower hormonal load despite the high safety profile of available products At the Ernst Schering Research Foundation Workshop 52 new perspectives and mechanisms for tissue selective estrogen free contraception were discussed The aim of the workshop was to bring together experts in the field of molecular and pharmacodynamic action of progestins with clinicians and medical experts to discuss potential medical endpoints physiological reactions and bio marker useful describing the tissue selectivity and the contraceptive action of new progestins in different target organs A major factor for successful realization of these new concepts is a deeper understanding of local pharmacological responses to progestins in general and to new progestins in particular The Promises and Challenges of Regenerative Medicine John Morser, S. -I. Nishikawa, 2007-01-19 Presents the advances in stem cell research This book discusses the analysis and use of stem cells in basic biology and their application in clinical practice

Neuroinflammation in Stroke Ulrich Dirnagl, Bernd Elger, 2004-01-14 The successful treatment of acute stroke remains one of the major challenges in clinical medicine Over the last decades the understanding of stroke pathophysiology has greatly improved while the therapeutic options in stroke therapy remain very limited Today hyperacute mechanisms of damage such as excitotoxicity can be discriminated from delayed ones such as inflammation and apoptosis Targeting of inflammation has already been successfully applied in various stroke models but translation into a clinically efficacious strategy has not been achieved so far In this book leading experts in basic cerebrovascular research as well as stroke treatment review the current evidence for and against an important role for inflammation in stroke and explore the potential of treating or modulating inflammation in stroke therapy Opportunities and Challenges of the Therapies Targeting CNS Regeneration H.D. Perez, B. Mitrovic, A. Baron Van Evercooren, 2005-05-06 Today combined oral contraceptives are the most convenient and accepted way of hormonal contraception Nevertheless there is a constant demand in the medical community and consumer market for innovation additional benefits during use and lower hormonal load despite the high safety profile of available products At the Ernst Schering Research Foundation Workshop 52 new perspectives and mechanisms for tissue selective estrogen free contraception were discussed The aim of the workshop was to bring together experts in the field of molecular and pharmacodynamic action of progestins with clinicians and medical experts to discuss potential medical endpoints physiological reactions and bio marker useful to describe the tissue selectivity and the contraceptive action of new progestins in different target organs A major success factor for the realization of these new concepts is a deeper understanding of local pharmacological responses to progestins in general and to new progestins in particular

Reproduction in Domestic Ruminants V B. K. Campbell,2003 Repair Proteins in Meiosis Paula E. Cohen,2004 This volume offers an extensive array of reviews on the roles of DNA repair proteins in meiotic recombination The use of various organisms serves to underscore the marked degree of conservation of these processes among sexually reproducing organisms but also highlights more subtle species specific adaptations to meiotic recombination Contributed by leaders in the field each chapter reflects the current state of their research and also provides a forum for new ideas and concepts in meiotic recombination By focussing on different pathways involved in meiosis and recombination this volume highlights the complexity of these processes and demonstrates how much has been learned in recent years as a result of the multiple approaches to studying these events in various model organisms Geneticists cytogeneticists developmental biologists and those involved in research on infertility and germ cell biology will find much to interest them in this outstanding collection of reviews
