Values, Nature, and Culture in the American Corporation William C. Frederick,1995 In Values Nature and Culture in the American Corporation distinguished ethicist William Frederick explores issues of fundamental importance to all who aspire to conduct their business affairs ethically He begins with an examination of the three value systems in business that are basically incompatible and therefore in constant tension The first is the need for managers to efficiently allocate resources for maximum profits The second is the natural tendency for managers in pursuit of the first goal to accumulate power for its own sake The third is the desire for people in the community to create relationships that will perpetuate these communities Frederick brings in a range of ideas and concepts from the social sciences as well as the natural sciences to illuminate his discussion In the final section of the book he explores a range of issues of current concern to managers including corporate culture and technology Public Affairs and Public Policy Michael P. Riccards, 2012-07-09 This is the fourth volume in the Hall Institute of Public Policies 2020 series These topical and scholarly articles are meant to examine some of the major issues facing the state of New Jersey and the United States and embrace matters of national security social entitlements religious differences the gold standard prosecutorial misconduct the rights of alleged terrorists the free market economy and other concerns These essays offer a unique picture of where we are as a free people and is compiled by one of the few nonpartisan not for profit think tanks in America Psychology in Human Affairs John Stanley Gray, 1954 A History of Experimental Psychology Edwin Garrigues Boring, 1929 The American Leviathan Charles Austin Beard, William Beard, 1930 The authors of this survey of the activities of the American federal government contrast the ideals of democracy with the facts concerning its actual bureaucracy revolutionized by machinery and modern science □□□□□□□□ □□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□ □□□□□□□□ (Japan), 1900 Technology Review, 1922 Creating Learning-centered Courses for the World Wide Web William B. Sanders, 2001 This book shows faculty and students how to integrate good practices in learning design and web page technology Using the web an educator can provide an active and interesting environment for his or her students to incorporate as part of a traditional classroom as a supplement to the classroom or in a distance learning course The book begins with good practices in teaching and learning Then it looks for design elements that can be applied to the web and pulls together the practice design and web technology It provides examples of active learning cohort learning problem solving and communication of complex information on the web For those interested in creating effective web based learning in class or through distance learning The Nation, 1930 Developing Sanity in Human Affairs Susan Kodish, Robert P. Holston, 1998-12-30 How can humans learn to function most effectively in their individual and social lives and best approach important ethical and social concerns Developing Sanity in Human Affairs answers this question through application of general semantics to the fields of education counseling communication critical thinking journalism and ethics General semantics developed by Alfred Korzybski is concerned with how humans can learn to evaluate and act more responsibly in conducting their individual and social lives The chapters in this collection deal with these issues in education and counseling social and cultural areas critical thinking communications humanism and ethics Highlights include the Alfred Korzybski Memorial Lecture which bridges past and present work in general semantics and applications to important current problems in media and other areas of communication Traditional and revisionist perspectives on foundations in general semantics are presented as are dialogues on critical thinking and general semantics Tech Engineering News, 1920
