

2 – TEACHING: YOU ARE A MISSIONARY

Ballet 5:8 School of the Arts – 2014-2015 Term

An Example in Christ

First and foremost, School of the Arts instructors should realize that by accepting a class of students for a duration of a semester, they are accepting not only a responsibility to teach the students about dance, but also a responsibility to be role model in Christ for the students. Regardless of whether it seems apparent to you or not, students will be looking up to their instructors – basically, watching their “every move.” Consequently, the responsibility of any Christian man or woman to live as an integrity-filled representative of the Gospel at all times could be said to be magnified by the reality of being in contact with students at Ballet 5:8 on a regular and ongoing basis. Therefore, all instructors at Ballet 5:8 should be prepared to live in such a manner as to be “above reproach” – literally, in a lifestyle that is Biblical and God-glorifying, both inside and outside the Ballet 5:8 studios.

Practical Requirements

The following are practical requirements for all Ballet 5:8 staff members, in light of the fact that we are all missionaries first and foremost. Though we hold each staff member generally responsible to uphold a Biblical lifestyle, we do specifically require that all staff members adhere to these requirements while serving with the ministry.

Church

Regular church attendance and involvement is mandatory. Ballet 5:8 believes strongly that, as a Christian, your participation in community with a body of Christian believers is essential to your health as a missionary. The directors of Ballet 5:8 reserve the right to inquire about your church attendance on an ongoing basis.

Atmosphere

Ballet 5:8 is a ministry. The community atmosphere should reflect the calling toward unity, love and grace outlined in the Word of God. Instructors should each strive to work with grace and forgiveness in all things. We do not expect perfection, but we do expect each person to be proactive in maintaining healthy relationships with others in the community. Ongoing conflict, gossip, slander, complaining and arguing will not be tolerated. (Reference: Philippians 2:1-18).

Spiritual Life

As a missionary, your life is full of ministry and you are constantly pouring out. We know how easy it is to neglect your own need for time with the Lord. For your own spiritual health, we want each member of Ballet 5:8 to be diligent about maintaining their spiritual life and focus. This includes but is not limited to personal times of prayer, reading and study of Scripture, and involvement in the body of Christ including community with other believers, submission to godly pastor/instructor, and participation in discipleship/mentor relationships with older and younger believers.

Conflict

If you have a conflict with another member of Ballet 5:8, please follow the model set out in Matthew 18:15-17. Please go to the other person and talk with him or her one on one regarding the conflict. If the issue is not resolved, go to your friend with the Ballet 5:8 Directors present. If the issue is still not resolved, the Ballet 5:8 Board of Directors will be called in to assess and mediate the matter.

Moreover, dancers and other persons involved with the ministry of Ballet 5:8 are never to be a sounding board for complaints about the ministry. Regardless of any particular situation, this ministry belongs to the Lord. Complaints should be discussed with the Directors, with the goal of resolution. Any conversations with other instructors, parents, friends, etc., not leading toward resolution of the complaint or conflict are considered gossip. (Reference, Ephesians 4:29).
