The Bulgarian Exarchate: Its History and the Extent of Its Authority in Turkey Richard von Mach, 1907 The New International Encyclopædia Daniel Coit Gilman, Harry Thurston Peck, Frank Moore Colby, 1902 Encyclopaedia of Ships and Shipping Herbert B. Mason, 1908 The Americana Frederick Converse Beach, George Edwin Rines, 1912 The New International Encyclopaedia Frank Moore Colby, Talcott Williams, 1929 The Hellenic Herald, 1906 Nelson's Encyclopaedia, 1913 The Americana, 1923 The Harmsworth Encyclopædia, 1905 The Encyclopedia Americana, 1927 The Antares Disaster J.F. Armstrong, 2025-12-09

The Antares Disaster On the night of November 21 1990 the fishing vessel Antares left the small Scottish village of Carradale for what should have been a routine night s work in the Firth of Clyde Aboard were four men skipper Jamie Russell Billy Martindale Dugald John Campbell and Stewart Campbell By dawn all four were dead their boat dragged to the bottom after its trawl lines were snagged by HMS Trenchant a Royal Navy nuclear submarine conducting training exercises in the same waters The disaster that followed exposed a web of institutional failures inadequate watchkeeping on a submarine whose command team was distracted during a high stakes training course fatal assumptions about surface vessels that led to an eight hour delay in launching a search and rescue operation and a culture of military secrecy that prioritized operational security over civilian safety Four men paid with their lives for negligence that official investigations would later confirm was entirely preventable The Antares Disaster tells the complete story of this tragedy for the first time combining meticulous investigation with intimate human narrative Drawing on Marine Accident Investigation Branch reports Fatal Accident Inquiry proceedings court martial transcripts and extensive interviews with survivors family members and maritime experts this book reconstructs the collision minute by minute while exploring the institutional failures that made it possible But this is more than an account of a single disaster It is the story of a small Scottish fishing community devastated by sudden loss of families fighting for accountability in the face of institutional resistance of a legal system that punished individual error while protecting systemic failure It examines the hidden costs of military operations in civilian waters the democratic deficit in how those operations are governed and the ongoing challenge of shared seas where fishing boats and submarines must coexist From the cramped control room of HMS Trenchant to the grief stricken homes of Carradale from the courtroom drama of the court martial to the quiet dignity of annual memorial services The Antares Disaster reveals how four ordinary men doing dangerous work became victims of extraordinary negligence and how their deaths forced changes that continue to shape submarine operations more than three decades later This is investigative journalism and maritime history but it is also a deeply human story about loss memory and the cost of institutional failure It asks uncomfortable questions about accountability about the balance between national security and public safety and about what we owe to those who work in dangerous professions while institutions tasked with protecting them fail in that duty Jamie Russell Billy Martindale Dugald John Campbell and Stewart Campbell went to work on a

Neutrino Astrophysics with the ANTARES Telescope Vladimir Kulikovskiy,2015-06-22 This thesis is devoted to ANTARES the first underwater neutrino telescope in the Mediterranean sea As the main scientific analysis a search for high energy neutrino emission from the region of the Fermi bubbles has been performed using data from the ANTARES detector A method for the background estimation using off zones has been developed specially for this measurement A new likelihood for the limits calculation which treats both observations in the on zone and in the off zone in the similar way and also includes different systematic uncertainties has been constructed The analysis of 2008-2011 ANTARES data yielded a 1.2 excess of events in the Fermi bubble regions compatible with the no signal hypothesis For the optimistic case of no energy cutoff in the flux the upper limit is within a factor of three of the prediction of the purely hadronic model based on the measured gamma ray flux The sensitivity improves as more data are accumulated more than 65% gain in the sensitivity is expected once 2012-2016 data are added to the analysis
