The Archaeology of Caves in Ireland is a ground breaking and unique study of the enigmatic unseen and dark silent world of caves People have engaged with caves for the duration of human occupation of the island spanning 10 000 years In prehistory subterranean landscapes were associated with the dead and the spirit world with evidence for burials funerary rituals and votive deposition The advent of Christianity saw the adaptation of caves as homes and places of storage yet they also continued to feature in religious practice Medieval mythology and modern folklore indicate that caves were considered places of the supernatural being particularly associated with otherworldly women Through a combination of archaeology mythology and popular religion this book takes the reader on a fascinating journey that sheds new light on a hitherto neglected area of research It encourages us to consider what underground activities might reveal about the lives lived aboveground and leaves us in no doubt as to the cultural significance of caves in the past The Archaeology of Early Medieval Ireland Nancy Edwards, 1996-05-05 In the first major work on the subject for over 30 years Nancy Edwards provides a critical survey of the archaeological evidence introducing material from many recently discovered sites as well as reassessing the importance of earlier excavations The Archaeology of Medieval Ireland Terry B. Barry, 2002-11-01 This eagerly awaited book is an outstanding and right up to date summary of every excavation and investigation undertaken in Ireland into the earthworks castles ecclesiastical buildings and towns of the period from the arrival of the Anglo Normans to the mid sixteenth century a most welcome synthesis and will be valued by the layperson student and professional archaeologist historical geographer and historian alike Archaeology Ireland The Illustrated Archaeology of Ireland Michael Ryan, 1991 Ancient Ireland R.A.S. Macalister, 2014-10-24 Archaeological evidence here is used to help build up a picture of the lives led by the people of which it is a record The contents include a description of primitive settlements leading up to an account of the art trade and civilization generally of early ages prior to the Celtic invasion and up to the end of Medieval times Two chapters take narratives from the time and analyse them against physical evidence and consider what they tell us alongside that information Many often overlooked facts are brought to the fore and special attention is paid to the overwhelming influence of climate in shaping human destiny Originally published in 1935 this book is as enlightening today
The Archaeology of Medieval Rural Settlement in Ireland Kieran Denis O'Connor, 1998 A wide range of archaeological and historical source material forms the basis of this well presented study which considers topics such as the role of castles as country house and manorial centres the nature of English peasant settlement on Anglo Norman manors and the nature of Gaelic settlement in other areas It also sets out directions for future research The Archaeology of Ireland RAS.
