Tibetoburman Tonology A Comparative Analysis:

Tibeto-Burman Tonology Alfons Weidert,1987-01-01 This monograph lays the foundation for a prosodological theory of Tibeto Burman languages within a comparative and reconstructional framework It is primarily based on data collections of mostly unknown languages on which the author worked for more than 10 years on several projects This comparative study of tonology represents a significant contribution not only to the historical comparative study of Tibeto Burman but also to the larger field of linguistic theory especially now that the subject increasingly begins to be approached along diachronic lines With this in mind it is hoped that this work will provoke future research in the field

Morphological Analysis in Comparison Wolfgang U. Dressler,2000-01-01 This volume consists of selected and revised papers from the Seventh International Morphology Meeting held in 1996 in Vienna It presents advances in morphological theorizing such as the foundations of sign based morphology the morphology syntax interface the boundaries between compounding and derivation derivation and inflection and the emergence of morphology from premorphological precursors in early first language acquisition The contributions deal with morphological analyses in various fields of the ever widening domain of morphology and its relevance to the lexicon The comparative aspect is reflected in the above mentioned areas and through the variety of languages investigated Indo European and non Indo European languages of Europe and Asian African and American languages This breadth allows valuable insights into current problems of morphological research in America Western and Eastern Europe

Trans-Himalayan Linguistics Thomas Owen-Smith,Nathan Hill,2013-12-12 The Himalaya and surrounding regions are amongst the world s most linguistically diverse places Of an estimated 600 languages spoken here at Asia s heart few are researched in depth and many virtually undocumented Historical developments and relationships between the region s languages also remain poorly understood This book brings together new work on under researched Himalayan languages with investigations into the complexities of the area s linguistic history offering original data and perspectives on the synchrony and diachrony of the Greater Himalayan Region The volume arises from papers given and topics discussed at the 16th Himalayan Languages Symposium in London in 2010 Most papers focus on Tibeto Burman languages These include topics relating to individual mostly small and endangered languages such as Tilung Shumcho Rengmitca Yongning Na and Tshangla comparative research on the Tibetic East Bodish and Tamangic language groups and several papers whose scope covers the whole language family The remaining paper deals with the origins of Burushaski whose genetic affiliation remains uncertain This book will be of special interest to scholars of Tibeto Burman and historical as well as general linguists

Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts, 2009 Cognition and Representation in Linguistic Theory Antoine Culioli, 1995 The objective of this book is to better acquaint English-speaking linguistics with a corpus of texts hitherto untranslated containing the cognitive-based research in formal linguistics of one of the most important theoreticians in the field Antoine Culioli b 1924 Culioli's viewpoint is grounded in Emile Benveniste's 1902-1976 revolutionary answer to Saussure's opposition between competence (langue) and performance (parole) captured in the idea of nonciation in which the relationship between an individual and a language is one of appropriation The translation has been prepared to provide the reader with as obstacle-free a path as one can clear to a theory that requires and indeed commands a very close attentive reading As an additional aid to understand Culioli's argument footnotes throughout the work show similarities and differences with the work of the cognitive linguist Ronald W. Langacker European Bulletin of Himalayan Research, 2004

Current Progress in Chadic Linguistics Zygmunt Frajzyngier, 1989 The volume consists of papers prepared for the International Symposium of Chadic Linguistics Boulder, Colorado, May 1-2, 1987 Although the papers are representative of the current work being done in the field of Chadic linguistics they also reflect the current and past interests and methodologies of general linguistics The papers included in the volume should therefore be of interest to a general linguist as much as to the Chadicist or a specialist in some other Afroasiatic branch The papers are grouped by the areas of linguistic fields and methodologies Papers on syntax are followed by papers on morphology phonology and methodology of historical reconstruction
