Technology Labor:

Networking Regionalised Innovative Labour Markets Ulrich Hilpert, Helen Lawton Smith, 2013 Innovative and creative labour is increasingly recognised as having a key role in regional economic development The more advanced the processes of innovation led entrepreneurship are the more important become highly skilled scientific engineering professional and university trained personnel This has led to the existing concentration in Europe and the US of innovative labour in a limited number of locations as elsewhere in the world and the tendency on both continents for further concentration at these Islands

Appropriate Technology United States. Agency for International Development. Office of Development Information and Utilization, 1981 Handbook of Economic Growth Philippe Aghion, Steven Durlauf, 2013-12-20 Volumes 2A and 2B of The Handbook of Economic Growth summarize recent advances in theoretical and empirical work while offering new perspectives on a range of growth mechanisms from the roles played by institutions and organizations to the ways factors beyond capital accumulation and technological change can affect growth Written by research leaders the chapters summarize and evaluate recent advances while explaining where further research might be profitable With analyses that are provocative and controversial because they are so directly relevant to public policy and private decision making these two volumes uphold the standard for excellence in applied economics set by Volumes 1A and 1B 2005 Offers definitive theoretical and empirical scholarship about growth economics Empowers readers to evaluate the work of other economists and to plan their own research projects Demonstrates the value of empirical testing with its implicit conclusion that our understanding of economic growth will help everyone make better decisions

Human Information Retrieval Julian Warner, 2009-09-25 An overview of information retrieval rooted in the humanities and social sciences but informed by an understanding of information technology and information theory Information retrieval in the age of Internet search engines has become part of ordinary discourse and everyday practice Google is a verb in common usage Thus far more attention has been given to practical understanding of information retrieval than to a full theoretical account In Human Information Retrieval Julian Warner offers a comprehensive overview of information retrieval synthesizing theories from different disciplines information and computer science librarianship and indexing and information society discourse and incorporating such disparate systems as WorldCat and Google into a single robust theoretical framework There is a need for such a theoretical treatment he argues one that reveals the structure and underlying patterns of this complex field while remaining congruent with everyday practice Warner presents a labor theoretic approach to information retrieval building on his previously formulated distinction between semantic and syntactic mental labor arguing that the description and search labor of information retrieval can be understood as both semantic and syntactic in character Warner's information science approach is rooted in the humanities and the social sciences but informed by an understanding of information technology and information theory The chapters offer a progressive exposition of the topic with illustrative examples to explain the concepts presented Neither narrowly practical nor largely speculative Human Information Retrieval meets the contemporary need for a broader treatment of information and information systems
