argues that this adaptation requires a genuine and deeply considered recognition of personal attitudes approaches and ingrained presumptions This book advocates for self reflection as a valuable more conscious and explicit component in the design process It illustrates that greater personal and professional relationships can be formed through the acknowledgement of mutual vulnerabilities and the development of trust respect and appropriately placed curiosity and that this is evident in the design delivery and ultimate construction of built space Through an innovative methodology combining auto ethnography and design research this book prioritises user and architect knowledge and experience to identify examine and discuss six key themes care integrity advocacy accountability sensibility and sustainability Collectively these themes contribute valuable insights into the meaningful and maintainable incorporation of lived experience into the processes of architecture This book will be of interest to architects researchers and students of architecture and design as well as healthcare professionals

The Built Surface: v. 1: Architecture and the Visual Arts from Antiquity to the Enlightenment Christy Anderson,Karen Koehler,2017-11-22 This title was first published in 2002 Since antiquity through to the present architecture and the pictorial arts paintings photography graphic arts have not been rigidly separated but interrelated the one informing the other and establishing patterns of creation and reception In the Classical tradition the education of the architect and artist has always stressed this relationship between the arts although modern scholarship has too often treated them as separate disciplines These volumes explore the history of this exchange between the arts as it emerged from classical theory into artistic and architectural practice Issues of visual representation perspective allegory site specificity ornamentation popular culture memorials urban and utopian planning and the role of treatises manifestos and other theoretical writings are addressed as well as the critical reaction to these products and practices This title represents a variety of methods approaches and dialectical interpretations cases where architecture informs the themes and physical space of pictures or pictorial concerns inform the design and construction of the built environment The exchanges between architecture and pictures explored by these authors are found to be in all cases ideologically potent and therefore significantly expressive of their respective social political and intellectual histories The Architectural Review ,1899
