Understanding Old Photographs:

Understanding Social Images Marcus Banks, David Zeitlyn, Chihab El Khachab, 2025-06-01 Marcus Banks was one of the scholars who changed the way visual anthropology and visual methods were regarded in social and cultural anthropology. This collection of Banks' essays considers the role of collaboration in the making of ethnographic films and makes the case for slow research. It discusses the meaning of anthropological research in film archives and illustrates how to analyse a wide range of visual material like maps, diagrams, and enigmatic photographs. It situates Banks' work in contemporary visual anthropology and Howard Morphy's Afterword explores how Banks' work helped illuminate his own collaboration with the filmmaker Ian Dunlop in aboriginal Australia.

Images of Dutchness Sarah Dellmann, 2025-10-01 Why do early films present the Netherlands as a country full of canals and windmills where people wear traditional costumes and wooden shoes while industries and modern urban life are all but absent? Images of Dutchness investigates the roots of this visual repertoire from diverse sources ranging from magazines to tourist brochures, from anthropological treatises to advertising trade cards, stereoscopic photographs, picture postcards, magic lantern slide sets, and films of early cinema. This richly illustrated book provides an in-depth study of the fascinating corpus of popular visual media and their written comments that are studied for the first time. Through the combined analysis of words and images, the author identifies not only what has been considered typically Dutch in the long nineteenth century but also provides new insights into the logic and emergence of national clichés in the Western world.

Mental Simulation Martin Davies, Tony Stone, 1995-12-04

Many philosophers and psychologists argue that our everyday ability to predict and explain the actions and mental states of others is grounded in our possession of a primitive folk psychological theory. Recently however this theory has come under challenge from the simulation alternative. This alternative view says that human beings are able to predict and explain each other's actions by using the resources of their own minds to simulate the psychological aetiology of the actions of the others. This book and the companion volume Folk Psychology: The Theory of Mind Debate together offer a richly woven fabric of philosophical and psychological theory which promises to yield real insights into the nature of our mental lives
