Adventure, Mystery, and Romance John G. Cawelt,2014-02-07 In this first general theory for the analysis of popular literary formulas John G Cawelti reveals the artistry that underlies the best in formulaic literature Cawelti discusses such seemingly diverse works as Mario Puzo's The Godfather Dorothy Sayers's

The Nine Tailors and Owen Wister's The Virginian in the light of his hypotheses about the cultural function of formula literature. He describes the most important artistic characteristics of popular formula stories and the differences between this literature and that commonly labeled high or serious literature. He also defines the archetypal patterns of adventure, mystery, romance, melodrama, and fantasy and offers a tentative account of their basis in human psychology. Lamp ..., 1914

Wisconsin Edward Augustus Fitzpatrick, 1928 Promise of Eden Doug Owsam, 1992-01-01 Through the last half of the nineteenth century numbers of Canadians began to regard the West as a land of ideal opportunity for large scale agricultural settlement. This belief in turn led Canada to insist on ownership of the region and on immediate development. Underlying the expansionist movement was the assumption that the West was to be a hinterland to central Canada both in its economic relationship and in its cultural development. But settlers who accepted the extravagant promises of expansionism found it increasingly difficult to reconcile the assumption of eastern dominance with their own perception of the needs of the West and of Canada. Doug Owsam analyses the various phases of this development, examining in particular the writings, historical, scientific, journalistic, and promotional that illuminate one of the most significant movements in the history of nineteenth century Canada. St. Andrew's Cross, 1909 Hearings United States.
