Transforming Study Abroad Neriko Musha Doerr, 2018-12-17. Written for study abroad practitioners, this book introduces theoretical understandings of key study abroad terms including the global, national, culture, native speaker, immersion, and host society. Building theories on these notions with perspectives from cultural anthropology, political science, educational studies, linguistics, and narrative studies, it suggests ways to incorporate them in study abroad practices. Through attention to daily activities via the concept of immersion, it reframes study abroad not as an encounter with cultural others but as an occasion to analyze constructions of differences in daily life backgrounded by structural arrangements. A Guide

theoretical perspectives relevant to the integration of study abroad into the curriculum The following nine chapters provide examples from a variety of disciplines from anthropology and religious studies to literature urban studies biology and public health and within such contexts as distance learning service learning and the senior thesis The concluding chapter considers faculty development activities and institutional structures and policies that support curriculum integration While the examples are drawn from Beloit College and Kalamazoo College liberal arts colleges with substantial study abroad enrollments and nationally recognized for their innovative practices readers will recognize they are easily adaptable to their own institutions The two colleges achieved their curricular innovations with limited financial resources and in the context that most of their students are dependent on financial aid The transformational ideas and practices described here provide material for reflection and campus conversations for anyone concerned with developing global citizens and well educated students and offer a blueprint for implementation
