Solar System Plasmas In Space Time:

Solar System Plasmas in Space and Time J. L. Burch, John H. Waite, 1994-01-10 Published by the American Geophysical Union as part of the Geophysical Monograph Series Volume 84 Solar system plasmas are highly structured and dynamic and are characterized by great variability in both space and time The variations in their spatial distribution and temporal evolution occur on a variety of scales ranging from kilometers ion gyroradius to hundreds of thousands of kilometers coronal mass ejections and from microseconds electron plasma frequency to years solar sunspot cycle Space plasma physicists seeking to understand the complex plasma phenomena that occur at the Sun in the solar wind and in the magnetospheres and ionospheres of the Earth and other solar system bodies thus face twin challenges First they must distinguish variations that are spatial in nature from those that are temporal The heavy reliance in past investigations on singlepoint in situ measurements has significantly limited their ability to do this Second space physicists must elucidate the interrelationships among micro meso and macroscale plasma phenomena relationships that organize the various solar system plasmas into a single heliospheric plasma system embedded in the interstellar medium Here too experimental limitations have constrained the development of a global picture of solar system plasmas However new technologies promise a significant advance in our understanding of the interconnectedness of solar system plasmas The Magnetospheric Multiscale Mission...Resolving Fundamental Processes in Space Plasmas S. Curtis, 1999 The Magnetospheric Multiscale MMS mission is a multiple spacecraft Solar Terrestrial Probe designed to study the microphysics of magnetic reconnection charged particle acceleration and turbulence in key boundary regions of Earth s magnetosphere These three processes which control the flow of energy mass and momentum within and across plasma boundaries occur throughout the universe and are fundamental to our understanding of astrophysical and solar system plasmas U.S. Civilian Space Policy United States. greater convenience for the user Volume 31 contains literature published in 1982 and received before July 15 1982 some older literature which was received late and which is not recorded in earlier volumes is also included We acknowledge with thanks contributions to this volume by Dr J Bouska Prague who surveyed journals and publications in Czech and supplied us with abstracts in English Solar System Plasmas and Fields J.
