Strength Of Desire:

The Strength of Desire Alison Fraser, 1995      The Epistemology of Desire and the Problem of Nihilism Allan Hazlett, 2024-04-24

Most people have wondered whether anything really matters some have temporarily thought that nothing really matters and some philosophers have defended the view that nothing really matters However if someone thinks that nothing matters if they are a nihilist about value then it seems that it is irrational for them to care about anything It seems that nihilism about value mandates total indifference This is the problem of nihilism Allan Hazlett addresses in The Epistemology of Desire and the Problem of Nihilism Hazlett argues that the problem of nihilism arises because desire and thus caring is a species of evaluation that admits of irrationality This contradicts the influential Humean view that desire does not admit of irrationality which has a ready solution to the problem of nihilism since desire does not admit of irrationality it cannot be irrational to care about something that you believe does not matter However following G E Anscombe Hazlett argues that desire has the same relationship to goodness as belief has to truth just as truth is the accuracy condition for belief goodness is the accuracy condition for desire This reveals desire as an appropriate target of epistemological inquiry in the same way that belief is an appropriate target of epistemological inquiry Desires can amount to knowledge in the same way that beliefs can amount to knowledge and crucially for the problem of nihilism desire admits of irrationality in the same way that belief admits of irrationality Nevertheless although it is obviously irrational to believe something that you believe is not true Hazlett argues that it is not irrational to desire something you believe is not good despite the fact that goodness is the accuracy condition for desire This provides a solution to the problem of nihilism and shows that nihilism about value can coherently be combined with the anti Humean view that desire is a species of evaluation

Desire as Belief Alex Gregory, 2021

What is it to want something Or as philosophers might ask what is a desire The idea that we explain and evaluate actions with essential reference to what people want is compelling as it speaks to common sense ideas that our wants lie at the heart of our decision making Yet our wants seem to have a competitor our beliefs about what we ought to do Such normative beliefs alone may often suffice to explain our actions To try and resolve this tension this book defends desire as belief the view that desires are just a special subset of our normative beliefs This view entitles us to accept orthodox models of human motivation and rationality that explain those things with reference to desire while also making room for our normative beliefs to play a role in those domains This view also tells us to diverge from the orthodox view on which desires themselves can never be right or wrong Rather according to desire as belief our desires can themselves be assessed for their accuracy and they are wrong when they misrepresent normative features of the world Hume says that it is not contrary to reason to prefer the destruction of the whole world to the scratching of your finger but he is wrong it is foolish to prefer the destruction of the whole world to the scratching of your finger precisely because this preference misrepresents the relative worth of these things This book mounts an engaging and comprehensive defence of these ideas Free Will, Causality and the Self Atle Ottesen Søvik, 2016-09-12 A major goal for compatibilists is to avoid the luck problem and to include all the facts from neuroscience and natural science in general which purportedly show that the brain works in a law governed and causal way like any other part of nature Libertarians for their part want to avoid the manipulation argument and demonstrate that very common and deep seated convictions about freedom and responsibility are true it can really be fundamentally up to us as agents to determine that the future should be either A or B This book presents a theory of free will which integrates the main motivations of compatibilists and libertarians while at the same time avoiding their problems The so called event causal libertarianism is the libertarian account closest to compatibilism as it claims there is indeterminism in the mind of an agent The charge of compatibilists however is that this position is impaired by the problem of luck This book is unique in arguing that free will in a strong sense of the term does not require indeterminism in the brain only indeterminism somewhere in the world which there plausibly is A Basic Theory of Everything Atle Ottesen Søvik, 2022-04-04 What are the basic building blocks of the world This book presents a naturalistic theory saying that the universe and everything in it can be reduced to three fundamental entities a field a set of values that can be actualized at different places in the field and an actualizer of the values The theory is defended by using it to answer the main questions in metaphysics such as What is causality existence laws of nature consciousness thinking free will time mathematical entities ethical values etc The theory is compared with the main alternatives and argued to solve problems better than the existing theories Several new theories are suggested such as how to understand mental causation free will and the truth of ethics and mathematics A Treatise on Human Nature David Hume, 1878 Works of Thomas Hill Green: Philosophical works Thomas Hill Green, 1918 Canadian Philosophers Canadian Association for Publishing in Philosophy, 1990 Ethics Frank Chapman Sharp, 1928 Prolegomena to Ethics Thomas Hill Green, 1883 An illustrative Scripture reference book for preachers and teachers George Seaton Bowes, 1895 The Ascent of Mount Carmel Saint John of the Cross, 1906 North American Journal of Homoeopathy, 1874 The Word, 1913 Selections Benedictus de Spinoza, 1930 Springs of Action Alfred R. Marsh, 2012-12-06 Over the past two decades theorists and researchers have given increasing attention to the effects both beneficial and harmful of various control related motivations and beliefs People s notions of how much personal control they have or desire to have
