Lewis,2025-10-02 This book seeks to create a new means of interrogating the direction in which contemporary science fiction is progressing In the late 1950s Hugh Everett III suggested that there is no way to say that there are not as many versions of what we experience as reality as there are particles in the universe This movement in contemporary science fiction serves as the foreground for the sense of loss and the need for sacrifice to set things right after generations of technological praxis by the nations and communities that have traditionally driven science fiction the Global North that have damaged communities throughout the Global South Colonialism and the drives for spheres of influence in the Cold War are now being met with the realities of such existential threats as global climate change Narratives about the loss of control over time reality and human consciousness demonstrate the on going ideological crises of faith in institutions like religion capitalism and education It is the grief for lost utopian dreams for the future that drives this interest in Everett s Many Worlds Interpretation of Quantum Mechanics or MWI Illusions of Human Thinking Gabriel Vacariu,2015-10-19 The book illustrates that the traditional philosophical concept of the Universe the World has led to anomalies and paradoxes in the realm of knowledge The author replaces this notion by the EDWs perspective i e a new axiomatic hyperontological framework of Epistemologically Different Worlds EDWs Thus it becomes possible to find a more appropriate approach to different branches of science such as cognitive neuroscience physics biology and the philosophy of mind The consequences are a better understanding of the mind body problem quantum physics non locality or entanglement the measurement problem Einstein s theory of relativity and the binding problem in cognitive neuroscience Interpreting Quantum Mechanics David W.
