Reform Options for the EU Own Resources System Friedrich Heinemann,Philipp Mohl,Steffen Osterloh,2008-06-10 The general review of the European Union s budget scheduled for the years 2008 and 2009 offers a unique opportunity for reflections Explicitly this review is without taboos so that also substantive changes can and should be debated Without doubt much better budgetary systems can be imagined compared to the status quo of the EU budget which is the outcome of a path dependent process and where many details are only understandable by taking account of the historical context of past decisions However even if much better systems could be designed in theory each reform suggestion in the end must pass the reality check of fi ing unanimous support from all 27 member countries This restriction heavily l its the universe of available reform options Faced with that difficulty the ZEW project team embarked on the adventure to think about possible reform options for the future EU own resource system This volume documents the conclusions At first sight our reform suggestion may appear to be of a rather piecemeal nature since we recommend a reform model with strong ties to the status quo Nevertheless we are convinced that our seemingly minor changes will set the budget on a path towards a more rational European budget which in the end will create leeway for financing European policies with a true European value added We gratefully acknowledge financial support from the German Federal Ministry of Finance in conducting this study

Subsidiarity and Economic Reform in Europe George Gelauff, Isabel Grilo, Arjan Lejour, 2008-04-03 Subsidiarity in the European Union as the guiding principle of decision making close to the people is often motivated and discussed from a predominantly political perspective In this book experts draw the demarcation between national and European policies from an economic viewpoint Insights from economic theory and empirical research are used both to analyse the assignment of policies between the EU and its member states and to identify appropriate levels of decision making

European Access, 2002 EU Security Missions and the Israeli-Palestinian Conflict Amr Nasr El-Din, 2016-12-19 This book explores and analyses the various factors that affected the formulation of the common EU policy towards the Middle East Peace Process MEPP as well as the specifics of the process by which the EU created EUPOL COPPS and EUBAM Rafah It answers two central questions firstly why and how did the EU decide to create and deploy these missions Secondly where do these two missions fit into the general EU approach to the conflict in the Middle East Based on confidential interviews with various actors in the process uniquely granted to the author it reveals the mechanics of decision making behind the scenes and argues that the EU decision to expand its role in the MEPP through the creation of the two missions was closely related to the EU's defined common interests in the Middle East. Further, it shows the missions were mainly the result of the EU's already established approaches to further its role in the international political arena. This text will be of key interest to scholars and students of European foreign policy, EU Politics, Middle East politics, and studies, foreign policy analysis, and more broadly to international relations.
