The Window at the White Cat (Classic Reprint) Mary Roberts Rinehart, 2015-07-03 Excerpt from The Window at the White Cat In my criminal work anything that wears skirts is a lady until the law proves her otherwise From the frayed and slovenly petticoats of the woman who owns a poultry stand in the market and who has grown wealthy by selling chickens at twelve ounces to the pound or the silk sweep of Mamie Tracy whose diamonds have been stolen down on the avenue or the staidly respectable black and middle aged skirt of the client whose husband has found an affinity partial to laces and fripperies and has run off with her all the wearers are ladies and as such announced by Hawes In fact he carries it to excess He speaks of his wash lady with a husband who is an ash merchant and he announced one day in some excitement that the lady who had just gone out had appropriated all the loose change out of the pocket of his overcoat About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
