Summit Of Mind:

Mountains of the Mind Robert Macfarlane, 2004-07-13 Combining accounts of legendary mountain ascents with vivid descriptions of his own forays into wild high landscapes Robert Macfarlane reveals how the mystery of the world's highest places has come to grip the Western imagination and perennially draws legions of adventurers up the most perilous slopes His story begins three centuries ago when mountains were feared as the forbidding abodes of dragons and other mysterious beasts In the mid 1700s the attentions of both science and poetry sparked a passion for mountains Jean Jacques Rousseau and Lord Byron extolled the sublime experiences to be had on high and by 1924 the death on Mt Everest of an Englishman named George Mallory came to symbolize the heroic ideals of his day Macfarlane also reflects on fear risk and the shattering beauty of ice and snow the competition and contemplation of the climb and the strange alternate reality of high altitude magically enveloping us in the allure of mountains at every level

Speculative Theology and Common-Sense

Religion Linden J. DeBie, 2008-05-15 Evangelicals in nineteenth century America had a headquarters at Princeton Charles Hodge never expected that a former student of Princeton and his own replacement during his hiatus in Europe John W Nevin would lead the German Reformed Church's seminary in a new and in his mind destructive direction The two along with their institutions would clash over philosophy and religion producing some of the best historical theology ever written in the United States The clash was broad influencing everything from hermeneutics to liturgy but at its core was the philosophical antagonism of Princeton's Scottish common sense perspective and the German speculative method employed by Mercersburg Both Princeton and Mercersburg were the cautious and critical beneficiaries of a century of European Protestant science philosophy and theology and they were intent on adapting that legacy to the American religious context For Princeton much of the new European thought was suspect In contrast Mercersburg embraced a great deal of what the Continent offered Princeton followed a conservative path never straying far from the foundation established by Locke They enshrined an evangelical perspective that would become a bedrock for conservative Protestants to this day In contrast Nevin and the Mercersburg school were swayed by the advances in theological science made by Germany's mediating school of theology They embraced a churchy idealism called evangelical catholicism and emphatically warned that the direction of Princeton and with it Protestant American religion and politics would grow increasingly subjective thus divided and absorbed with individual salvation They cautioned against the spirit of the growing evangelical bias toward personal religion as it led to sectarian disunity and they warned evangelicals not to confuse numerical success with spiritual success In contrast Princeton was alarmed at the direction of European philosophy and theology and they resisted Mercersburg with what today continues to be the fundamental teachings of evangelical theology Princeton's appeal was in its common sense philosophical moorings which drew rapidly industrializing America into its arms Mercersburg countered with a philosophically defended churchly idealism based on a speculative philosophy that effectively critiqued what many to this day find divisive and dangerous about America's current Religious Right
