The Epic Paul Merchant, 2017-07-06 First published in 1971 this work examines the tradition of the epic and the many forms in which it has presented itself over time After unpicking the defining aspects of an epic the book tracks the literary tradition from the classical period through to modern day Exploring major texts such as Beowulf Odyssey Divina Comedia The Faerie Queene and Ulysses this work will be a valuable resource for those studying the epic and English literature

The Epic Trickster in American Literature Gregory E. Rutledge, 2013-04-26 Just as Africa and the West have traditionally fit into binaries of Darkness Enlightenment Savage Modern Ugly Beautiful and Ritual Art among others much of Western cultural production rests upon the archetypal binary of Trickster Epic with trickster aesthetics and commensurate cultural forms characterizing Africa Challenging this binary and the exceptionalism that underlies anti-hegemonic efforts even today this book begins with the scholarly foundations that mapped out African trickster continuities in the United States and excavated the aesthetics of traditional African epic performances Rutledge locates trickster like capacities within the epic hero archetype the epic trickster paradigm and constructs an Homeric Diaspora which is to say that the modern Homeric performance foundation lies at an absolute time and distance away from the ancient storytelling performance needed to understand the cautionary aesthetic inseparable from epic potential As traditional epic performances demonstrate unchecked epic trickster dynamism anticipates not only brutal imperialism and creative diversity but the greatest threat to everyone an eco-apocalypse Relying upon the preeminent scholarship on African American trickster heroes traditional African heroic performances and cultural studies approaches to Greco-Roman epics Rutledge traces the epic trickster aesthetic through three seminal African American novels keenly attuned to the American Homeric Diaspora Charles Chesnut's The Marrow of Tradition Richard Wright's Native Son and Toni Morrison's Beloved past that has created America's national story. In this important narrative, James Truslow Adams reviews how the ordinary American has matured over time in outlook, character, and opinion. Adams is interested in the whole of American history, how it began, and what it represented in the first half of the twentieth century. He traces the historical origins of the American concept of bigger and better attitudes toward business, the American Dream, and other characteristics generally considered typically American. Ever since America became an independent nation, each generation has seen an uprising of its citizens to save the American Dream from forces seeking to overwhelm and dispel it.

Worlds of Hungarian Writing András Kiséry, Zsolt Komáromy, Zsuzsanna Varga, 2016-05-12. Worlds of Hungarian Writing responds to the rapidly growing interest in Hungarian authors throughout the English-speaking world. Addressing an international audience, the essays in the collection highlight the intercultural contexts that have molded the conventions, genres, and institutions of Hungarian writing from the nineteenth century to the present. They are mapping some of the ways in which a modern literature is produced by encounters with languages, cultures, and media external to its traditionally conceived boundaries. But rather than viewing intercultural exchange as an external force, the collection recognizes its enabling importance to the globalizing reception and circulation of Hungarian writing over the continuities and constraints implied by more traditional national narratives. Worlds of Hungarian Writing posits intercultural exchange as the very substance of a literary culture. Discussions of the politics of appropriation and translation, the impact of migrant writers and critics, and of the use of world literary models in genre formation complement studies of the fate of western leftist critical theory in post-1989 Hungary, of the role of African American models in contemporary Roma culture, and of the use of photography in late 20th-century prose. The volume spans a wide generic range from the achievements of such canonical 19th-century critics and poets as József Bajza and János Arany to neglected women authors, translators such as Theresa Pulszky, to modernist writers and critics like Antal Szerb and György Lukács, and to the contemporary novelists Péter Esterházy, Péter Nádas, and László Krasznahorkai. Each essay is an original contribution to comparative literature and to the study of this Central European literature, but is intended to be accessible to readers unfamiliar with its traditions.
