Tropical Multiculturalism:

Tropical Multiculturalism Robert Stam, 1997 Focusing on the representations of multicultural themes involving Euro and Afro Brazilians other immigrants and indigenous peoples in the rich tradition of the Brazilian fictional feature film Robert Stam provides a major study of race in Brazilian culture through a critical analysis of Brazilian cinema 136 photos

Brazilian National Cinema Lisa Shaw, Stephanie Dennison, 2014-05-01 Brazilian cinema is one of the most influential national cinemas in Latin America and this wide ranging study traces the evolution of Brazilian film from the silent era to the present day including detailed studies of more recent international box office hits such as Central Station 1998 and City of God 2002 Brazilian National Cinema gives due importance to traditionally overlooked aspects of Brazilian cinema such as popular genres ranging from musical comedies the chanchada to soft core porn films the pornochanchada and horror films and also provides a fresh approach to the internationally acclaimed avant garde Cinema Novo of the 1960s Lisa Shaw and Stephanie Dennison apply recent theories on stardom particularly relating to issues of ethnicity race and gender to both well known Brazilian performers such as Carmen Miranda and Sonia Braga and lesser known domestic icons such as the Afro Brazilian comic actor Grande Otelo Big Othello and the uberblonde children s TV and film star and media mogul Xuxa This timely addition to the National Cinemas series provides a comprehensive overview of the relationship between Brazilian cinema and issues of national and cultural identity

Becoming Brazilians Marshall C. Eakin, 2017-07-25 This book traces the rise and decline of Gilberto Freyre s vision of racial and cultural mixture mestiagem or race mixing as the defining feature of Brazilian culture in the twentieth century Eakin traces how mestiagem moved from a conversation among a small group of intellectuals to become the dominant feature of Brazilian national identity demonstrating how diverse Brazilians embraced mestiagem via popular music film and television literature soccer and protest movements The Freyrean vision of the unity of Brazilians built on mestiagem begins a gradual decline in the 1980s with the emergence of an identity politics stressing racial differences and multiculturalism The book combines intellectual history sociological and anthropological field work political science and cultural studies for a wide ranging analysis of how Brazilians across social classes became Brazilians

Josephine Baker and Katherine Dunham Hannah Durkin, 2019-08-16 Josephine Baker and Katherine Dunham were the two most acclaimed and commercially successful African American dancers of their era and among the first black women to enjoy international screen careers Both also produced fascinating memoirs that provided vital insights into their artistic philosophies and choices However difficulties in accessing and categorizing their works on the screen and on the page have obscured their contributions to film and literature Hannah Durkin investigates Baker and Dunham s films and writings to shed new light on their legacies as transatlantic artists and civil rights figures Their trailblazing dancing and choreography reflected a belief that they could use film to confront racist assumptions while also imagining within significant confines new aesthetic possibilities for black women Their writings meanwhile revealed their creative process engagement with criticism and the ways each mediated cultural constructions of black women's identities Durkin pays particular attention to the ways dancing bodies function as ever changing signifiers and de-stabilizing transmitters of cultural identity In addition she offers an overdue appraisal of Baker and Dunham's places in cinematic and literary history Region Out of Place

Courtney J. Campbell, 2022-05-31 The Brazilian Northeast has long been a marginalized region with a complex relationship to national identity It is often portrayed as impoverished backward and rebellious yet traditional and culturally authentic Brazil is known for its strong national identity but national identities do not preclude strong regional identities In Region Out of Place Courtney J Campbell examines how groups within the region have asserted their identity relevance and uniqueness through interactions that transcend national borders From migration to labor mobilization from wartime dating to beauty pageants from literacy movements to representations of banditry in film Campbell explores how the development of regional cultural identity is a modern internationally embedded conversation that circulated among Brazilians of every social class Part of a region based nationalism that reflects the anxiety that conflicting desires for modernity progress and cultural authenticity provoked in the twentieth century this identity was forged by residents who continually stepped out of their expected roles taking their region's concerns to an international stage Brazil on Screen Lúcia Nagib, 2007-07-30 Two periods of Brazilian film history are particularly notable for their artistic momentum the Cinema Novo movement of the 1960s and early 70s and the film revival from the mid 1990s onwards What makes them especially strong this book argues is their utopian impulse By adopting Utopia as a theme as well as a method of film analysis Lucia Nagib unveils and interprets a fascinating wealth of recurrent images which are a bridge between a cinema strongly concerned with the national project and another informed by global culture Outstanding recent films such as Central Station Perfumed Ball Hans Staden Orfeu City of God and The Trespasser are illuminated by Nagib's sharp analysis which detects utopian anti-utopian and even dystopian impulses in them They are at once representatives of a political arena in constant struggle against underdevelopment and legitimate as well as critical heirs of past cinematic traditions Throwing new light on a large selection of Cinema Novo and contemporary films this book thus presents a national cinema that rejects the end of history and of film history while benefiting from and contributing to a new transnational aesthetics The Hispanic American Historical
