Valuing People:

Valuing People to Create Value Hervé Mathe, Xavier Pavie, Marwyn O'Keeffe, 2011-08-31 Motivation that is positively weaved into the organizational culture plays an instrumental role in the success of a company as well as in talent retention. This book aims to provide readers with a comprehensive and practical understanding of motivation by exploring the theories of motivation. It also focuses on innovative practices of leading organizations that are known for positive management relations with their employees. It also presents Motivation Spectrum, a dynamic tool designed by the authors that can be leveraged by organizations and managers to motivate people positively and to foster a relationship of value among employees and employers.

Valuing People and Technology in the Workplace: A Competitive Advantage Framework Hughes, Claretha, 2012-03-31 Valuing People and Technology in the Workplace: A Competitive Advantage Framework introduces a more proactive strategic approach to bring employees into and develop them within an organization. Interpreting and accepting this concept requires managers to think of employees as they would think of technology. Technology equipment and systems are strategically aligned within organizations. Integrating the literature from strategic technology management, strategic human resource management, and human resource development and exploring how this integration can provide competitive advantage to organizations for better implementation of people and technology development initiatives is a potential solution. Valuing People and Technology in the Workplace: A Competitive Advantage Framework provides a comprehensive framework that can be used to develop and design case studies that could measure the identified values that people, technology, and strategy can provide to the organization. This book aims to serve as a guide for managers and leaders as they develop strategies to introduce new people and technology into the workplace.

Valuing People with a Learning Disability Steve Mee, 2012 Most health and social care service providers claim to value those with a learning disability. Yet there can sometimes be a huge gulf between stated intentions and what happens in everyday practice. In a few cases that have recently hit the headlines, there have even been allegations of systematic abuse. This timely book asks three vital questions: What do we mean by valuing? How does the process of valuing work? What needs to happen to ensure that we value people with a learning disability? Too often practitioners tend to say they're all right in theory but not in the real world. In this book, Dr Steve Mee draws on his experience as a practitioner and lecturer on a learning disability nursing course in which he has successfully used stories to bridge the gap between academic theory and everyday practice. Each chapter introduces the reader to a particular area of theory and illustrates it with uniquely powerful, memorable stories from practice, as well as examples from recent news and historic accounts. Reading the book will give practitioners new insight, empathy, and sensitivity that will make a lasting difference to their practice. It invites practitioners to truly reflect on whether they can claim to value the people they support.
