Heller, Nancy

W. Sindelar, 1991 School districts considering a mentoring program need to consider four things 1 the reasons for a teacher mentor program 2 how to start such a program 3 administrative support needed for a successful program and 4 pitfalls to avoid The reasons for having a mentor program are that it benefits the new teacher the mentor and the school The new teacher's opportunities to exchange views with an experienced teacher is a distinct benefit to him/her The mentor benefits also however because of the opportunity to share views experiences and strategies The improved teaching that usually results is an asset to the school Starting a program involves six stages establishing a rationale setting criteria for the selection of mentors defining roles inviting the mentors training the mentors and evaluating the program To be successful the program must have administrative support from the board of education the superintendent the central office staff the teacher union and the principal As with any new program anticipating problems can help to avoid them Some pitfalls are overdependence on the part of the protégé ego problems on the part of the mentor and the evaluation dilemma arising from the mentor's dual role of confidant and evaluator Mentorship programs promote professionalism by providing continuous staff development during the first year of teaching AMH

The Portfolio Approach to Assessment Emily Grady, 1992 The shortcomings of standardized testing as the predominant form of student assessment in the United States are reviewed and the use and potential benefits of portfolio assessment are explored Children's educational experiences and their future job prospects and standards of living are being decided by test scores Moreover these test scores may be unfair or biased against some students Instead of more tests we need a new attitude toward assessment one that encourages a variety of assessments Portfolio assessment through collections of student works can be an encompassing format for this new philosophy Before considering what a portfolio should contain it is important to establish the purpose of the assessment The experiences of Vermont illustrate the development of a portfolio assessment with consistent standards Examples of guidelines for mathematics and language arts portfolios make it clear that it is possible to establish consistent practices It is also necessary to reflect on the portfolio occasionally using self evaluations and direct questions or profiles Educators also find portfolios useful tools for preservice teachers Portfolio assessment can be the framework for a new curricular structure that integrates assessment into the learning loop SLD

State Academies for the Academically Gifted James E. Green, 1993 This guide to residential state academies for academically gifted high school students discusses the history of this movement student characteristics curricula faculty outreach programs and evaluation The establishment of the nine existing state institutions is traced from the prototype the North Carolina School for Science and Mathematics to the most recent established in Alabama in 1991 Reasons for such schools are given ranging from the specialized curricula needed by such students to their need for peer support The question of elitism is addressed suggesting that such schools actually are egalitarian in that they provide an opportunity for all students from both poor and wealthy regions of the state to go as far as they can The various selection processes are described and compared noting that the use of holistic methods rather than standardized tests results in enrollments more consistent with the demographic profiles of the state's population. Curricula are discussed with special focus on the Indiana Academy Curriculum Criteria for selecting faculty are then briefly considered as are state academy outreach programs. The lack of comprehensive and systematic evaluation of these new institutions is noted. Contains 21 references. DB

Implementing the Disabilities Acts Patricia F. First, Joan L. Curcio, 1993. This booklet presents information helpful in implementing laws intended to extend full societal participation to individuals with disabilities. Information concerning the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act of 1990 (IDEA) addresses the law's major provisions, provisions for medically fragile children, amendments and modifications, and case law related to least restrictive environment. A discussion of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 reviews major provisions, specific titles, enforcement and remedies, and the impact on schools. Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 is also briefly described, focusing on its impact on schools. The pamphlet concludes that schools and school districts that have a commitment to inclusive education for all children will have no difficulty in complying with the requirements of these three laws.
