The Effects of Jolly Phonics on Letter Sound Recognition of Kindergarteners Sandra Zahradnik, 2011

The purpose of this study was to discover if the use of Jolly Phonics would improve letter sound recognition of kindergarten students

This study used a pre assessment post assessment design in my kindergarten classroom

The students participated in twenty minutes of daily instruction of Jolly Phonics for a nine week period

I administered a pre assessment and post assessment of DIBELS Nonsense Word Fluency weekly probes of easyCBM sounds at the end of each instruction week and recorded anecdotal notes for each student in my classroom

The data collected during this study supported the hypothesis that daily direct instruction using Jolly Phonics a systematic synthetic phonics program increases kindergarten students ability on letter recognition of kindergarteners

Children were given weekly easyCBM probes which also gave them extra practice in using the letter sounds that they had been instructed in through my direct instruction with Jolly Phonics

I do feel further research is needed to determine if the Jolly Phonics instruction

What I do know as a result of my study is that all students showed significant growth in letter sound recognition
